troit, Gradual, Offertorium and Communion were chanted by Messrs. Martin Maguire and Henry Curry, assisted by a male chorus of 15 voices.

Before the sermon Mr. Maguire rendered Handel's exquisite "Veni Creator," and at the offertory Mrs. Muldoon sang the stately jubilee hymn "Tu es Petrus," assisted by the full choir.

The church decorations were most artistic. The white marble altars were covered with flowers and resplendent in the light of hundreds of candles and incandescents. The sanctuary was adorned with tropical plants. Along the right side of the church were placed the banners of the different societies of the parish.

Fr. Finnick's Sermon

Rev. Fr. Finnick, now of Marlboro, and though a young man the oldest priest in point of ordination born in the parish, preached the sermon. He spoke in part as follows:

Sermon by Rev. Fr. Finnick, O. M. I.
"Go ye, therefore, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; for behold, I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world."—Math. 28:19-20.

These words of our blessed Lord, my dear brethren, contain a precept and a promise; we will now see how the precept has been fulfilled and how the promise has been kept. Considering the state of the world at the time, nothing short of a divine command could force the apostles to take up the work, nothing less than the assurance of divine assistance could stay their hearts under such terrible trial. Once the Holy Ghost had come down upon the apostles after our Lord's ascension, filled with the spirit of God, they openly professed Christ crucified, and wrought wonders in his name. In the Acts of Apostles we read that Peter and John were going towards the beautiful gates of the temple, and as they passed by the familiar figure of a cripple greeted them, and begged for alms. Peter looked with compassion, and said, "Silver and gold I have not, but what I have I give unto thee, in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth arise and walk." Immediately the poor cripple, after 40 years, arose perfectly cured, and glorified God, who had given such power to man. The Jews, hearing the wonder that had been performed, summoned the apostles before the high council and commanded them to go their way and preach no more in the name of Christ crucified. Peter filled with the Holy Ghost rose up and said, "It is fitting that we obey God rather than men," and they went their way and continued preaching in the name of Christ. Human power had no fear for them; they preached in the name of Jesus and everywhere they made converts. Finally they were apprehended and thrown into prison; bondage for well nigh three centuries. Then came the torrent of pagan barbarians from north and east, which completed the destruction with fire and sword. The church proceeded to create order out of chaos. She first converted the barbarians; gathered them around her monasteries, where she might the more easily teach them letters and instruct them in agriculture. She then helped them to organize governments and make laws; by degrees she abolished slavery and serfdom, and established liberty and equality.

On the one side were arrayed all the powerful influences of the empire, material and intellectual, the writings of pagan philosophers. On the other, a few uneducated men, inspired, however, by a knowledge of the truth and the consciousness of a divine commission. I need not mention the reception accorded these first apostles and teachers of Christ. Take up the history of the church's first three centuries, and there is a story that will send a thrill of horror through the most hardened heart. For three hundred years paganism assailed the church with fire and sword and every conceivable instrument of torture; the blood of her children flowed in torrents, and her martyrs fell by the thousands. With only a few exceptions, the Roman emperors were all, more or less, fierce persecutors of the Christians. But the church had received the solemn promise that "the gates of hell shall not prevail against her." By endurance and patience, armed with the weapons of prayer and sacrifice and deeds of heroic charity, she triumphed over all her powerful enemies and the blood of martyrs served only to fertilize the earth, that it might produce new hosts of children. That persecutions would arise in the church was foretold by her divine founder, "Behold I send you." Christ said to his disciples, "As lambs among wolves; if they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you." The first and also chief cause of the hatred that the world bore his followers, and consequently the secret of all persecution against his church, He showed them, in these words: "If you have been of the world, the world would love its own; but because you are not of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

No age or condition of life was overlooked, from the little child to the man and the woman, torturing with years from an Agnes to a Polyeucte, all alike braved every torture, and gave their lives for the faith.

When the Christian church emerged from her cradle of persecution, and vindicated herself for her work, she found a world in ruin. Everything had decayed, religion both revealed and natural, all virtue and morality, poetical and domestic life, every bond that bound man to man. Corruption of all kinds prevailed, selfishness, cruelty, uncleanness. The whole world, pagan and Jewish, was groaning with anguish, and looking for the coming of some divine power to renew all things. But men would not recognize their deliverer in the person of the Christian church and kept her in their own dignity and rights. The religious orders founded their convents in the most remote places, where the best opportunity presented itself to civilize and to Christianize. With her commission went forth a Patrick to Ireland, an Augustine to England, a Benedict to Germany. Missionaries like these received their commission and inspiration from the church, as the apostles had received it from Christ. "Behold I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world." These missionaries went forth with nothing but a staff in their hands, prepared to encounter all sufferings, even death itself, for the success of their undertaking. The church did not hesitate to use the sword of the spirit in protecting the marriage bond. She has always taught that marriage once contracted, cannot be annulled, except by death. "What God hath joined together, let not man break asunder." In defense of this doctrine the church has suffered persecution and incalculable losses, and her children know that they cannot violate it without forfeiting membership in her communion. Her stand on this question was made clear in the case of the immoral king, Henry VIII, when she sacrificed the whole English nation rather than grant him a divorce from his lawful wife. The church does not question the state's right to define and regulate the civic consequences arising from marriage, but she can never surrender her own right to safeguard the sanctity and indissolubility of marriage as a sacrament. Marriage ties today are ruthlessly broken, and pre-natal life sacrificed apparently without fear of the heretic and with only a feeble protest from the churches. The Catholic church alone faithful to the divine command, "Go and teach," stands out against all such crimes, holding forth the authority of Christ.

The church is the great civilization of nations. She established learning at a time when men respected only brute force. She founded schools and universities everywhere, offered education to all, selected the most promising students from every rank, and opened great careers before them. She also created art in all its branches, painting, sculpture, architecture, music; supplying inspiration to them from her doctrine and consecrating them to her worship. It must suffice to say, that every science, geography and history, literature and philosophy, medicine and astronomy owes its original creation and most of its present advancement to the encouragement of Roman pontiffs, and the labors of monks and priests.

At the same time, the moral character of Christendom was formed. The universal Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man were set forth during the ages of faith, were afterwards under Protestantism.

The figure of the Virgin Mother of God was placed before women, who had been degraded by paganism, and they saw in her the sweet ideal of purity for the Christian maiden, and of the dignity for the Christian wife. During the 6th and 7th centuries, the church of Ireland stood in the full beauty of its bloom. There was not a country in the world, during this period, which could boast of pious foundations or religious communities equal to those that adorned that far distant land.

During this period, the famous monasteries of Clonard and Bangor were founded, each one of which housed 500 monks. In those happy days Ireland was called the New Rome, or the Holy Isle, and people flocked from all parts of Europe to take refuge from the miseries on the continent, or to devote themselves to study or the practice of piety in the undisturbed retirement of the Irish monasteries.

The Catholic church is the greatest teacher the world has ever known since that eventful day when Christ said to his apostles, "Go and teach." The church has not ceased. Her essential mission is in mission of teaching. The pope is a teacher, the bishops and priests are teachers, and great bodies of men and women are organized in the church and go through long courses of training to prepare them for the life-work of teaching to which God has called them. Not one part merely of the pupils' nature is attended to, but the body, heart and mind are simultaneously and harmoniously developed. This great church is doing throughout the world, and especially in our own country, where the parochial system of schools is so flourishing, and grant the day when the state will assume the expense of these schools, and free the Catholic people from the double taxation of supporting public and parochial schools.

All these wonders have been wrought under the most trying dif-

"FIT CITIZEN"

Subject of Rev. B. A. Willmott's Sermon

MUST BE ABOVE CLASSES AND CREDITS

Rev. James E. Gregg, New Pastor of Kirk Street Church, Preached Yesterday—Y. M. C. A. Arranges a Reception to Dr. and Mrs. Yarnell

At the First Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, began a series of Sunday night sermons, the general topic being "The Fit Citizen." He said that the fit citizen must be above classes, above creeds, and that America must never bring into her life the old divisions which have cursed Europe. He said that a man who appeals to class, to creed, divisions, is a great enemy of our republic.

Kirk Street Church

There were free vacant seats in the Kirk Street church yesterday. Rev. James E. Gregg, who began his pastorate with the Friday night meeting, was the preacher and besides a large attendance of members of the congregation, many were present from other churches. The subject of the preacher's sermon was "God's Workmanship" and the congregation was favorably impressed by the young minister. Rev. Mr. Gregg is 32 years of age and has had but one pastorate before coming to Lowell. That was in Plattsfield, where he built up a strong church.

Rev. C. E. Fisher

At the First Universalist church in Hurd street, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, struck the keynote of optimism when there was a good musical program. "Cheer up" was the topic of Rev. Mr. Fisher's talk and he advised his listeners to look on the bright side of things. He said that the trouble with most of us is we are too selfish and he said it would be well for us to forget ourselves at times and think that we are living for someone else.

Reception to Dr. Yarnell

Arrangements have been completed for the reception to Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Yarnell at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening when Lowell people will have an opportunity to meet the new secretary. The ladies' auxiliary has the matter in charge and there will be an orchestral music during the evening and refreshments will be served.

Former Secretary Morse has accepted a position as general secretary of the association at Northfield, Conn. His father and mother will move from Northampton, Mass., and will make their home with him.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. James Hill of this city and Miss Martha Cahay of East Chelmsford were united in marriage last Friday evening, October 1, at the residence of the officiating clergymen, Rev. J. A. Connell, 65 Gates street. The best man was the bride's brother, John Cahay of the second United States artillery, stationed at West Point, but now at home on a short furlough. The bride was the bride's cousin, Miss Edith Brown of East Chelmsford. The bride was gowned in blue satin with white lace trimmings, and the bride-maid in black, similarly trimmed. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's father, Hugh Cahay, on Centre street, East Chelmsford, attended by a considerable number of friends. Mr. Hill is a respected employee of the City Iron Foundry, and the home of the couple will be on Centre street, East Chelmsford.

MARSHALL—GOW

Mr. David Marshall and Miss Christina Gow, late of Scotland, were married Sept. 30, by Rev. Samuel Jackson, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Strachan, 92 Bellevue street. The bride-maid, Miss Annie Strachan, was a cousin of the groom, and Mr. John Johnston was best man.

MAYOR OF ST. LOUIS AND VIEWS OF CITY WHICH HOLDS BIG CENTENNIAL FESTIVAL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—This city began yesterday the biggest historical celebration since its incorporation 296 years ago; the event being known as the Centennial. The ringing of more than 400 church bells at sunrise Sunday morning will announce the opening of the festival. During the week there will be a water pageant in which United States war vessels will participate, flights by Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator; races in dirigibles, balloons, many athletic events, a trading post in 1761 by Pierre La Cépion to Dr. Cook, discoverer of the elude, Lignost, a Frenchman, who had North pole; the parade and ball of the fur trading concession from the Voile Prophets, a banquet to the Spanish government. It was in 1803, six years after the Louisiana purchase, which made St. Louis a part of the United States, that the town, with a population of about 1000 persons, was incorporated. The growth of St. Louis from a small trading post to the fourth city in the United States in point of population will be illustrated in the pageants. St. Louis was founded as a city by Michael J. Johnson. A large congregation of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum attended communion in a body at the 7 o'clock mass yesterday. They marched from the society's rooms in Safford street to the church and were assigned to seats in the centre aisle. Rev. John J. McHugh, spiritual director of the organization, was celebrant of the mass.

At Immaculate Conception

At the church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday there was celebrated, as is the annual custom, the feast of the most holy rosary. There were special services morning and night.

The solemn mass was sung by Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I., formerly of this city, but now of Rock Creek, near Green Bay, Wis. The deacon was Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., and the sub-deacon, Rev. William Patton, O. M. I. The sermon on the rosary was by Rev. John P. O'Brien, O. M. I., and was largely historical in character. The music was the choir directed by Mrs. Hugh Walker, organist. The mass was Kranzschke's. At the offertory Mrs. E. P. McHugh sang with much feeling Houshaw's "Ave Maria." Mrs. Walker played the organ.

In the afternoon many new members were received into the Holy Rosary society by Rev. Fr. O'Brien, and the pastor, Rev. George L. Nolan, O. M. I. spoke briefly to them on the society and its benefits.

The United Irish league resumed its meetings for the winter season in

O. H. Hall last night with a fair attendance in spite of various county attractions.

It was announced that within the near future T. P. O'Connor, M. P., one of the greatest men of the Irish race, is coming to this country with Captain Condon and John O'Callaghan, now visiting Ireland, all three to sail on Oct. 11. The announcement created considerable interest, the fact being that Mr. Redmond, the Irish leader, foresees an early dissolution of parliament and the expensive campaign work of a general election in which he hopes to secure a delegation of 55 nationalists.

Members holding the balance of power between the two great English parties.

There were able addresses by Captains M. J. Jordan of Boston and John O'Callaghan, a Boston journalist.

President Rourke opened the meeting and called upon Mr. E. J. Gallagher to preside. The chairman read letters from the national president announcing the coming of T. P. O'Connor, M. P., Captain Condon and John O'Callaghan and stating that they will address a series of meetings in cities, including Lowell, soon after their arrival.

Mr. Jordan was introduced as one of a large number of gentlemen who display their brilliant talents and a considerable portion of their time in the Irish cause without any compensation whatever, and who also pay their expenses going out through the states to enlighten the people upon the progress that has been made by the Irish party in winning grand returns that could never have been accomplished but for the assistance of the friends of Ireland in this country.

Mr. Jordan was cordially greeted and said it could be stated definitely that no man concerned with the Irish parliamentary movement in this country gets any compensation whatever, while many of them are devoting their time and energy to it and feel that they are well repaid by the glorious progress being made by the party at home in their own land and to foreign lands.

Mr. Jordan then dwelt upon the past history of Ireland, the farming and a return to it and the lesson learned by the Irish in their struggle against the English, against oppression.

Feeling that this struggle had been fought and won more than any other people ever had and they were determined to do it again if ever again an attempt were made to oppress them.

He spoke at some length of Ireland's past, to show why the Irish people should be proud of their past and why they should look forward for a restoration of Ireland's rights. He said that Ireland in the past few years had gained more substantial reforms than had been previously secured for centuries. He cited many instances of the great enterprises recently made, and among others the transfer of the land to the people and the power of local self-government obtained through the county councils, which enables the people to manage their own affairs and make local improvements that were formerly held up by grand juries composed mainly of landlords, lest the expenditure increase local taxation. In conclusion he appealed to the people of Lowell to stand by Ireland in this dual stage of her battle for legislative independence and to make the reception to T. P. O'Connor, M. P., Captain Condon and John O'Callaghan one of the most successful Irish demonstrations in the history of Lowell.

Mr. C. O'Connell Galvin

Mr. O'Connell Galvin of Boston was introduced and spoke in eloquent terms of the grand orations given by Captain Condon and John O'Callaghan, now visiting Ireland, all three to sail on Oct. 11.

TWO MEN DEAD BOY IS MISSING

Probably Were Killed by Has Been Gone From Whiskey Home Since Saturday

BIDDEFORD, Me., Oct. 4.—Two Biddeford men are dead and a third is in a critical condition as a result, it is alleged, of drinking whiskey secured from a Diddford Express company.

John W. Hayes, a former member of the Biddeford police department, was found dead near Bradton's wharf on Saturday afternoon. It was learned that Alexander Normandin, who had been with Hayes, had also dropped dead, and that Edward Bergeron, a third member of the party, was in a critical condition. An investigation was set on foot by the Biddeford police, and while inquiries have not been made yet to determine the exact cause of death, it is believed that all three deaths were the direct result of the men imbibing too freely of stout Main whiskey.

THE COTTON BELT

Conditions Seem to Be
Getting Worse

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—Taking the cotton belt as a whole, there has been no marked change, and the change, if any, has been toward further deterioration, according to the Times' Democrat's cotton crop bulletin for the month of September.

Continuing the bulletin says:

The storm of Sept. 29 did great damage in the district which came within its sweep.

"Picking has made rapid progress and there is generally an abundance of labor for this purpose."

Farmers seem disposed to sell at current prices, at least enough to pay their debts, but a considerable part of the crop is likely to be held for an advance later on.

"The boll weevil has wrought havoc in certain sections, but the intense heat minimized the loss from this pest."

"The next report will be printed on Monday, Nov. 22."

LOSS REDUCED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—While the first estimate of the damage done the cotton crop of Louisiana and Mississippi by the hurricane of Sept. 29 have been greatly reduced, the loss sustained both in the amount of yield and condition of the staple is considerable according to the Pleiadus. In many sections some of the cotton carried to the ground by the violent winds has been saved by heroic work, but the quantity and grade have been seriously affected.

It is estimated that in 10 or 15 days most of the fields will be entirely clear and all cotton will have been harvested.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Mr. Henry W. Savage has struck the "big nail" of success on the head with his production of the dashing military operetta, "The Gay Hussars," which will be seen at the Opera House to-night. "The Gay Hussars" possesses the three most important elements of success in an operetta—a fine score, an interesting and romantic story and a well selected cast of players.

In presenting "The Gay Hussars" Mr. Savage has introduced a number of new artists to playgoers. Miss Muriel Terry, who plays the role of Volunteer Cadet Maries, is the first woman in years to score a big success in a boy's character. Muriel Terry has been identified with grand opera. She was mezzo soprano at the Met and National Theatre in "The Merry Widow." The organization of "The Gay Hussars" comprises the biggest light opera company that has ever gone on tour. In addition to the immense cast a grand opera orchestra and Hungarian gypsies add to the attractiveness of "The Gay Hussars."

UNCLE DAVE HOLCOMBE

A novelty will be introduced in the musical drama entitled "Uncle Dave Holcombe" at the Opera House, from the pen of Mr. William Lawrence and Mrs. Annie Andrew Hawley of Boston, Mass. Mr. William Lawrence has for the past five years appeared as "Uncle Josh" in "The Old Homestead" with great success. During the action of the play, in the farm-yard scene, Miss Marion Shirley will enact the difficult problem of milking a cow in the full view of the audience, while the stage debut at the premiere of "The Milkmaids" quartet will render old-fashioned songs and hymns. The Wafer Perkins, assisted by an expert company, appears in the comedy "Mr. Lush from Jordan & March."

Foley and Fugan are popular dancers who give a striking demonstration of skill and grace in the execution of dances. Swans and swans of skirts, daintily-stepped dances, and the catchiest of songs, are some of the things that combine to make the act given by Farnum and the Clark Singers a dazzling bit of musical comedy. A brightly-written comedy is "The Stage Manager," and it is beautifully done by Bert Howard and Eddie Lawrence. Mr. Howard introduces an excellent piano specialty, "Philis Gordon," "The Girl Who Sings," is due to make herself very popular with local theatregoers. She is a petite and pretty comedienne with a sweet voice that is heard in several of the newest songs. Peleg and Whylie, the singing comedians, offer a first-class number. Two men with agreeable voices comprise the team, and their songs and comedy form one of the pleasantest features of the night.

Hugh Blaney is a singular comedian equipped with a mettlesome voice of great power, and a comedy ability that makes his act a great laughing success.

A BROKEN IDOL

Mystery or the deepest dye shrouds the working of the balloon effect in the musical comedy, "A Broken Idol," which will be seen at the Opera House on Thursday, Oct. 5.

This effect, which is said to be a great novelty, the best of its kind, is most carefully guarded. The audience sees a complete balloon leave the stage carrying the prima donna far out over the audience in an aerial flight which lasts for over five minutes, but so far

Although Bobby North has been a vaudeville star for five or six years his role of Sub-Lieutenant Walderin in "The Gay Hussars" is the first important character that he has created. His artistic handling of this role and the success he has attained in it give him an important position among leading comedians. Miss Anna Bassett, the prima donna, by her dramatic and vocal work in "The Gay Hussars" has added to the excellent reputation she achieved last season in the title rôle of "The Merry Widow."

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The real big attraction at Hathaway's theatre this week will be Voltas, the electrical marvel. Voltas applies his fingers fearlessly to the spark made by a current of many thousand volts. He lights test tubes in his mouth and burns out wires in incandescent lights. Handkerchiefs applied to Voltas' bare arm, his chair and the sole of his shoe spring into flame from the contact.

RATHER GO TO JAIL.

It would seem that there is something radically wrong with our city government since those who have been there of late would rather go to jail than go back.

THE SCHOOL DEPARTMENT UNRESTRICTED.

The school department evidently can override the orders of the committee on appropriations. When it comes to a matter of discharging teachers, where they are needed, there is good ground for objection. The city is obliged to provide instruction for all the pupils who attend, and this requires a reasonable teaching force.

TARIFF ON HIDES.

Whether the tariff be high or low, it seems that the people will have to pay trust prices for what they buy anyhow. We have had the tariff on hides removed but the price of shoes instead of going down has shot right up. There is always some power to counter-check any advantage that might accrue to the masses.

PRESIDENT BAER'S INGENIOUS EXPLANATION.

President Baer of the Reading Coal company has hit upon an ingenious way of explaining how all the companies adopt a uniform price without being in a combination that is forbidden by law. He says his company fixes the price of its product and that other companies that can produce coal cheaper adopt the same rate. Mr. Baer assumes that by this explanation he proves that there is no coal trust. The trust exists and it has kept up the price of coal ever since the strike of a few years ago.

CAUSES OF FINANCIAL FAILURES AND SUICIDE.

It is quite remarkable what a large number of business men have gone out of business in this city during the last few years, either through the insolvency court or by suicide. It might appear from such occurrences that Lowell is a poor city to do business in, but such a conclusion is not warranted by the facts and would be unjust to the reputation of Lowell. It must be admitted that for many years past we have had more citizens victimized in risky financial ventures than any other city of our size in the country perhaps. It seems to be an undisputed fact that we have had a large crop of suckers in Lowell; we mean men who can be easily induced to embark in any of the get-rich-quick schemes so numerously floating about this country and so successful in deceiving citizens of Lowell who should be more conservative.

It is not for lack of opportunity in Lowell, not for want of thriving enterprises in which reasonable profits can be made. We have in Lowell a lot of small industries that are steadily growing and that would be more prosperous still if they were helped along by local interest and the investment of local capital. We have also a lot of large industries that offer a good field for investment, but somehow very few of our citizens have any desire to shareholders in a big mill, a big machine shop or a big shoe shop. Unfortunately too many of them turn their attention to outside investments with the nature of which they are not familiar, and thus they often lose what they invest. It is unhappily true also that many patronize the bucket shop, keeping up the game with varied success until eventually they get so deeply involved that they are unable to retrieve their losses, and they have then to face the inevitable. In many cases the blow is too much for them to bear and they resort to suicide to escape the humiliation and disgrace.

We have so much of this in Lowell that it is time a halt were called upon this form of dissipation—so ruinous to legitimate business and often to the happiness of the parties involved. It is high time to bring to the attention of investors in Lowell that there has not been a judicious investment in the better real estate in Lowell for the last thirty years that has not proved quite successful.

There is no question about the paying qualities of down town or business property in Lowell. Had the men who went into the wild cat schemes to make money invested in Lowell real estate and kept their property up to date they would eventually have received good returns on the money invested and in no case would they have lost.

Even our Lowell industries will compare favorably with those of other cities, and we have quite a variety. They enjoy first class facilities for transportation, an extensive local and suburban car service for the easy conveyance of help; and with our water power we have many advantages not enjoyed by other cities.

The whole trouble seems to be a lack of appreciation of local enterprise, business and opportunity. If more of our citizens who want to get rich in a hurry would take hold of some local industry, however small, and pass it onward, we should have fewer business failures, fewer suicides and greater business stability. Above all invest your money at home; do not be afraid of Lowell real estate; do not imagine that Lowell industries do not offer many opportunities of profitable investment; do not imagine that in order to get rich you must put your money in western mines, southern rubber plantations or in some new-fangled scheme for manufacturing gold bricks. Above all do not stake your fortune, and it may be your life, on a chance as uncertain as the flip of a coin, for this is what is frequently done in the bucket shops and in other reckless forms of speculation.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a man tells you that he is suffering from insomnia, so that he never gets a wick of sleep, he deserves sympathy, of course, but there is always a chance that if you should drop into his chamber unexpectedly at one o'clock in the morning, you would catch him napping.

The people who can't afford an automobile, comfort themselves by remarking how like guys the automobile people look.

Even the boy who is brought up under the management of three maiden aunts occasionally turns out well.

If men always keep their promises, only think how much less women would have to find fault about!

The man who tries to be funny is generally a bore, but a woman can be funny without trying by just running for a silver cup.

It is no use to try to get a woman to admire any amateur artist's work, if her husband paints.

Don't feel too much flattered when a man comes to you and asks you respectively for your advice about a serious matter. He may come around next week to borrow money.

Here's hoping that you will never become so angry with the poor man responsible for this column as to shoot him with a baked apple.

When a little man four feet, five and a half inches high exclaims with emphasis: "I insist upon it!" everybody laughs.

Thackeray produced a novel without a hero in it, but who can imagine a successful novel without a heroine?

No young man can persuade a girl that imitation is the sincerest flattery when she discovers that he has given her an imitation diamond.

When a man can describe with perfect accuracy the costume worn by a woman he has met, his wife is seldom jealous of him.

The motto of the self-seeking business man: "Don't hit a man when he is down; kick him."

The doctor who says that women are much less graceful than men is very likely right. As a rule, they are also much less disgraceful.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Lloyd Walleigh Josselyn of Bridgewater has been appointed by President Faunce to the position of assistant librarian of Brown University, succeeding the late John Milton Burnham. Mr. Josselyn entered Brown with the class of 1907. He has been second assistant librarian for three years.

By unanimous vote of the Pilgrim Memorial church in Pittsfield a call has been extended to Rev. Warren S. Archibald of Boston to become pastor of the church to succeed Rev. James E. Gregg. Mr. Archibald is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1903, and of the Harvard Divinity school in the class of 1907. It is expected that if he accepts the call he will begin his work in Pittsfield in November. For nearly two years he has been assistant to Rev. Geo. A. Gordon, D. D., at the Old South.

APPENDICITIS.

The most dreaded disease of civilization is the condition known as appendicitis. Once fully established, nothing will remedy but the cold knife. The theory that this inflammation was caused by seeds or foreign bodies entering the appendix is long exploded. The true cause of appendicitis is sluggishness of the bowels, constipation, and the gases which are formed in consequence produce germs known to the scientific physician as the Bacilli Coli Commensalis. Now to avoid this formation of gas germs, constipation and the resulting inflammation, take Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, which have been tested in all the various diseases of the stomach, bowels and liver, and found to be the greatest and best preventative remedy known. These wonderful little vegetable pills cleanse the blood, and make it sick and red. They stimulate the liver to healthy action and invigorate the whole system. You may be very sick at night; Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills make you well in the morning. Physicians and recommends. They form no habit. You should always keep them on hand. These little Vegetable Pills will ward off manyills.

ONE CONTINUOUS ROUND OF AUTUMN'S PERTINENT JOKES

PERSISTENT.

Mr. Goodenough: "You're the sixteenth tramp that's been around here today, and I can't do anything for you."

Mr. Obadiah Teogood: "Sorry, ma'am; but if you'll lemme sleep in the barn overnight I'll be the first tramp ter ax for breakfast tomorrow."

BUT SHE WOULD, PROBABLY, SHAMELESS EXTRAVAGANCE. MRS. THREEFINGERS—Now, look here, sir, if you come home in this condition many more times I shall lose my temper.

Colonel Threefingers—Well—hic—m'dear, I wouldn't—hic—mind that if—hic—you never found—hic—it again.

AT THE GATES.

ACTRESS—Hello! Who are you? St. Peter—he more respectful, please. Don't you know I'm an angel?

Actress—At last, thank goodness! You're the very man I've been looking for.

LOST IN THE SHUFFLE.

SCRIBBLER—So old Skinflint's family didn't like the obituary I wrote?

Editor—Oh, the obituary was all right, but the fool foreman ran it under the head of "People and Pleasant Events."

A Departure.
MRS. OATCAKE—Mary Jane, who was that young feller in th' parlor last night?

Mary Jane—He's an automobile drummer, mother.

Mrs. Oatcake—For th' land's sake! Hey they got new usin' drums 'stead uv horns on them pesky things?

The Case With Him.

MRS. HEN-PECK—They can't punish bigamy too severely. No one should have any sympathy for the man who takes one wife too many.

Mr. Henpeck—The idea, Marfa!

Do you think I should be sent to jail?

Have You One?

LITTLE WILLIE—Say, pa, what is a mutual friend?

Pa—A mutual friend, my son, is one who makes it his business to keep you informed of the menu things your other friends say about you.

Marked Down.

KITTY—Life is what we make it.

Editor—Oh, the obituary was all right, but the fool foreman ran it under the head of "People and Pleasant Events."

INCAPACITATED IN TOE-TOE.

The Motorist (who has run over a stonbreaker's toe): "What! You want $500 for a crushed foot? Nonsense! I'm not a millionaire."

The Pessimistic Stonbreaker: "No, an' I ain't no bloomin' centipede either."

First and Second Childhood.
YOU say that I am a mere infant?" remarked the young senator.

"I have so characterized you," replied his aged confere.

"All right," was the pleasant rejoinder. "Perhaps you are wiser than I. This is my first experience of childhood, you know."

Long Winded.

IT takes you a pretty long while to shave yourself, doesn't it?"

"Not so very long; I can shave myself quicker than my old barber could."

"I don't believe it."

"It's a fact; you see, he stammers terribly."

Did Him a Favor.

HUNTER—That guide seems very fond of amateur sportsmen.

Postmaster—Yes; one of them mistook his mother-in-law for a deer last year.

Perishable.

WHAT says Mrs. Misses?"

"She says she spent the whole afternoon making that cake and the family gobbled it up in fifteen minutes."

"This statement that all men are born equal is an utter fallacy. Why, my baby weighed ten pounds when it was born, and Tackley's weighed only seven and a half."

USED TO IT.

Pike County Guide: "Pray, mister, pray! Yer lost!"

Mr. Skillman: "I'm all right. When I'm at home I ride in the jam-them-in cars twice a day during the rush hours!"

LONG WHILE AGO.

"I'M the first man who kissed her."

"She must have known you in some previous state of existence, then."

FAMILY PRIDE.

"WHAT nonsense!" exclaimed the proud young father as he flung the book aside.

"To what do you refer?" asked the friend who welcomed any topic that did not lead to a description of phenomenal children.

"This statement that all men are born equal is an utter fallacy. Why, my baby weighed ten pounds when it was born, and Tackley's weighed only seven and a half."

NOT COMPLETE.

"HA!" cried the nervous woman, staring from her bumber.

"There is a burglar in the house! What shall we do?"

"Let us put our heads together," suggested the resourceful woman.

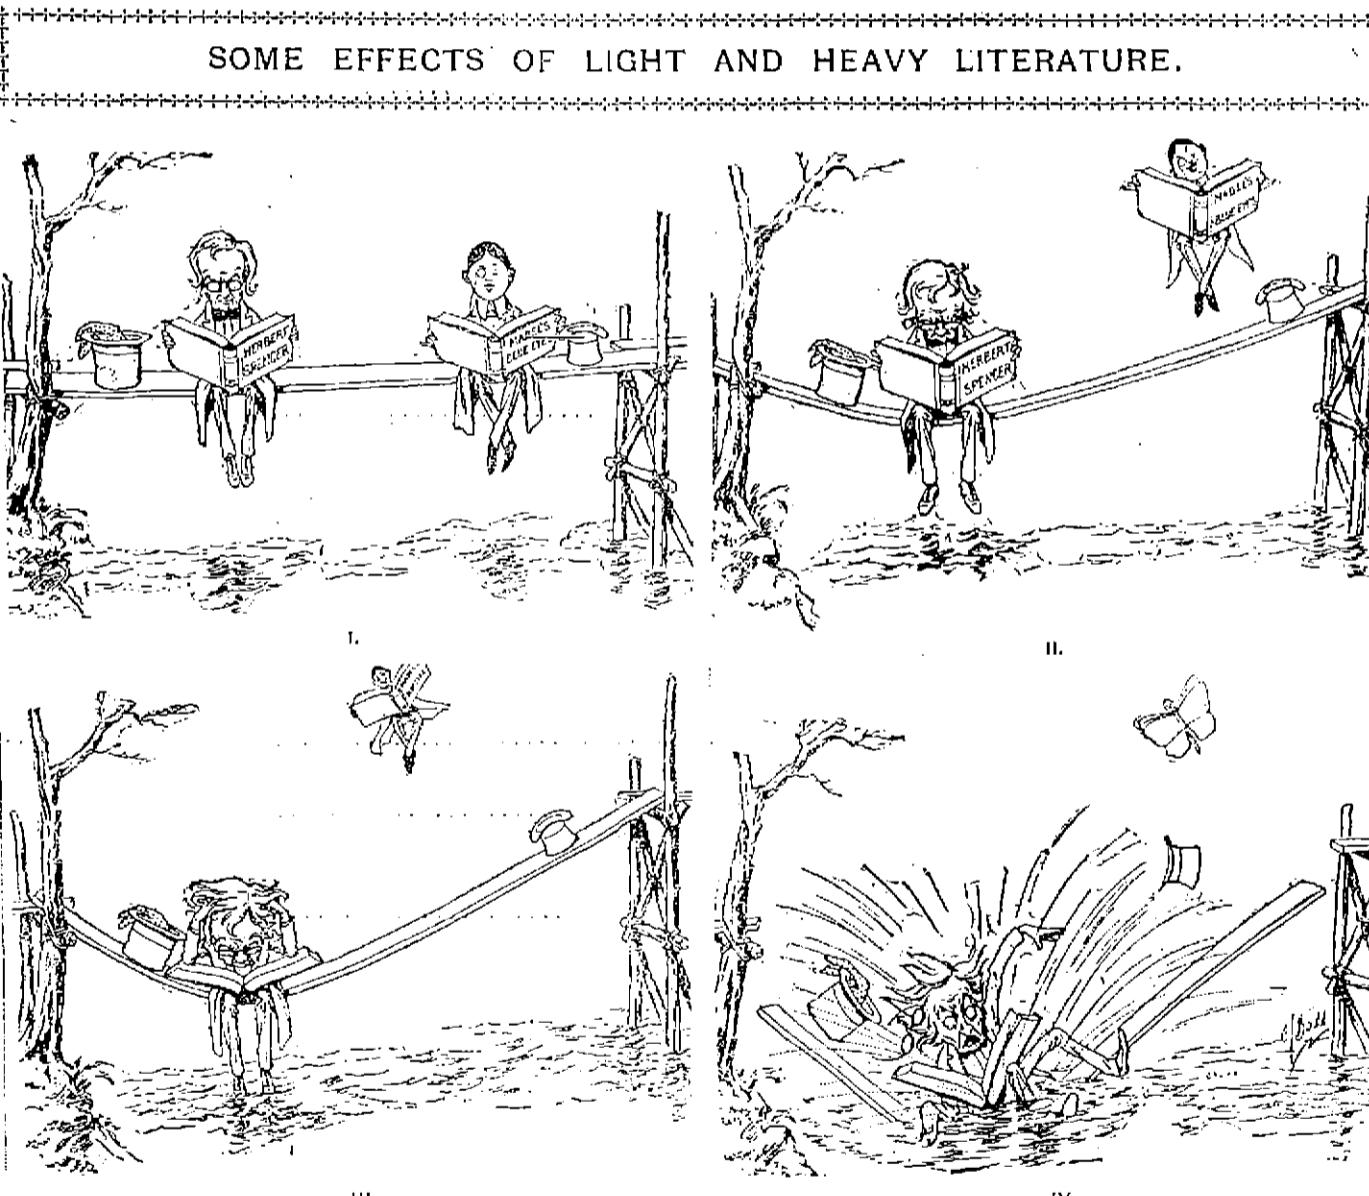

"It is impossible!" the nervous woman gasped after a short struggle.

Her hair, to be sure, hung on the bedpost, but where were her teeth?

THE WOMAN OF IT.

HE—Isn't it sickening to listen to the compliments some men pay to women?

She—Yes, especially to the compliments they pay to other women.

A STUDY IN ASTRONOMY.

He Didn't Count.

MRS. JONES—And she told me not to mention it to a living being.

Mr. Jones—Huh! And you tell it to me.

Mrs. Jones—Yes, she said nothing about dead ones.

"Well, that lessens the waist, doesn't it, mamma dear?" replied the artless girl.

A Waist Contraction.

"LAURA," said the young lady's mother, not unkindly, "it seems to me that you had the gas turned rather low last evening."

"It was solely for economy, mamma," the maiden answered.

"There is no use trying to beat the gas company, my daughter.

I have noticed that the shutting off of the gas is always followed by a corresponding increase of pressure."

"Well, that lessens the waist, doesn't it, mamma dear?" replied the artless girl.

A NATURAL ERROR.

"WHAT'S the matter with Nora?"

"I secured her from that mutual help office, and she claims that I Tell him E. Cann, ought to do half her work."

COWBOY MEDICINE.

Coyote Pete: "What yer practicin' fer, Ike? Got a grudge agin some one?"

Deadly Ike: "Naw, but me pard in that's got a touch of rheumatiz, an' I'm makin' a porous plaster fer him!"

A TIRED TYRANT.

OFFICER—How'd you like a home of your own?

LITTLE HORACE—Fa, why don't Thirlodd?

—we have heroes any more?

Miss Thirlodd—Cook—I'd like it. Um tired brainin' Pa—We do, only they're not dead in the birthday yet.

ONLY.

Man of Unmailed Letters.

MR. BROWN—is your husband a man of letters?

Mrs. Jones—Yes. He must have at least a dozen of mine that he has never mailed.

Not a Dead One.

"I HEAR that Cheekleigh is living beyond his means."

"Guess that's right. He told me he was unable to pay the doctor who pulled him through recently."

Their Identity Revealed.

MAMMA, who are the powers?"

"The cook and the seamstress, of course."

Two Reasons.

THE new bookkeeper looks at his watch every five minutes."

"He must have a new watch or a new wife."

UNINTENTIONAL COURTESY.

Rupert: "How kind Egbert is to scratch that poor strange dog's ear!"

Wilfred: "Why, my dear boy, Eggie's legs are so long he thinks he's scratching himself."

PA OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED.

TEACHER—Johnny, can you tell me what are the two disputing now iron was first discovered?

Johnny—Yes, sir.

"About the nature of a conflict?"

"Well, just tell the class what your 'A conflict' is."

"Well, George reported that it is a light matter, while I maintained that it is a serious affair."

LOYALTY TO CHURCH

Man's Loyalty to Country, Says President Taft

PORLAND, Oct. 4.—President of this country the Catholic church to-day, while stilling another attack from the government and state, the scene changed from the Mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake City on Sunday last, to the center stone laying of the First Universalist church in East Portland.

The president handled the silver ceremonial over than anxious trowel and worked hard to see the beginning of the establishment of stone properly adjusted, the appropriate ministrations of clergymen, and their earnestness in setting the stone and clear difficulties might be avoided.

Indication that every government action will be taken to make the church experience said in concluding:

"No church or organization, however humble it may be, can serve as the doctrine of the separation of church and state will lack many voices to support it, make it more influential wherever it goes."

The president's train passed through over the Sacramento River, en route to Sacramento, Calif.

Mr. Taft had a talk with the religious day which began with the morning services at the First Universalist church in Portland, and followed by a sermon by Rev. W. G. Thompson. After this service, the program was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Senator Bourne, which included various state and city officials.

In the early afternoon the president visited St. Mary's Catholic school and made an inspiring speech to the school children in which he declared that loyalty to the church meant fidelity to country.

The line of march followed by the presidential party to East Portland was crowded, and there was handshaking and cheering all along the way.

After the president had been introduced at the center stone laying by Rev. James C. Colby, pastor of the church, he said:

"I don't know that anyone questions the propriety of my being here, and of officiating on such an occasion as this, or that an explanation of any sort is called for. But I want to say I believe it to be the duty of the president of these United States to welcome and to suggest every opportunity in which the morale of religion in the community may be elevated and maintained. Not long ago I officiated at the corner stone laying of an Orthodox Congregational church in Washington, D. C., and appeared in the pulpit of a Jewish tabernacle at Pittsburgh. But a few days ago helped to lay the corner stone of a Catholic institution in Helena, Mont."

And now it is my great pleasure to assist here today in laying the corner stone of the Universalist church, which, like my own, the Unitarian church, is known as a liberal one.

"I am glad always to be present at such occasions as these for I believe in the corner stone of modern civilization must continue to be religion and morality."

The president told some of his experiences with the Catholic church in the Philippines, and they said that on the occasion of his visit to Rome he ventured to tell the pope that while in America the sentiment was strong for the separation of church and state, there was nothing in the American government or the American people which opposed the church or its high development; that in no European country had the Catholic church flourished as it had in America, and that in

SHOT IN STOMACH

Man Fatally Wounded in Restaurant

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 4.—While sitting at a table in the restaurant of Francis J. Gaffney, of Woonsocket, Mass., Everett Blanchard, aged 25 years, of this city, was shot in the stomach late yesterday by a companion and died later at the hospital here. The assailant, whose name is not known to the police, escaped. Joseph LaMaderre of Woonsocket, who was with the two men at the time, is held by the police as a witness, but he has been unable to throw any light on the cause of the shooting. He said that there had been no quarrel apparently between the two men, and the proprietor of the place said he had heard no loud talking. From the course taken by the killer it is believed that Blanchard, who was a tall man, was standing up and his assailant sitting down when the shot was fired. Blanchard leaves a widow and three children from whom he had been separated for some time.

The Thompson Hardware Co. has just received a line of beautiful new styles and designs of Bros Auditors. Nothing like them has ever been seen or shown in Lowell before.

TWO MEN KILLED

Eight Others Were Seriously Injured

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—Two men were killed and eight other passengers seriously injured, three of them probably fatally, last night in a street car accident here.

The accident occurred in the fashionable residence section of the East End on the Butler and Negley Avenue division of the Pittsburgh Railway Co. While a car on this line was rounding a corner at fast speed, one of the axles broke. The car upset, the dead and injured being caught in the wreckage. All the victims were passengers.

MISS BEATTIE

ARRESTED IN LONDON, ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Eleanor Lorraine Beattie, who was recently arrested in London at the request of New York firm of jewelers, charged with having impersonated her pretenses, then Mrs. Charles Stearns, wife of the former attorney general of Rhode Island, and now Madame Paragoni, wife of the Italian chauffeur at Rose Hill, was brought back here yesterday to face trial about the "White Slave" Battie under the name of Eleanor L. Barton.

Miss Beattie's impersonation and arrest were brought about by the pretended entrapment of a jewelry salesman, who was struck by her pronounced height and mannish dress. She is of good family and it has repeatedly been intimated that the case against her would never be pressed. The specific charge against her is that she obtained $1500 worth of silverware by false representations and subsequently pawned it.

THE POPE IS ILL

Has Been Sick For Several Days

ROME, Oct. 4.—For several days past the Pope has been sick, but he continued to receive visitors, hoping to overcome what he considers a slight indisposition. Saturday he received in audience one of the archbishops, who noticed that the pontiff appeared tired and languid. After the audience was ended the symptoms became aggravated, there being considerable pain and swelling of the leg, which indicated a recurrence of the gout. Although the attack is slight, the pope's doctors have insisted upon complete rest and the audience have been suspended.

ARRIVED IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, who succeeded Charlemagne Tower as ambassador to Germany, arrived yesterday on the liner George Washington for his first visit to this country since his appointment to the post at Berlin. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hill.

Dr. Hill scented the idea of any war between England and Germany, "Germany," he said, "has a great deal of prosperity which she must maintain, and it is not decided that she will jeopardize it by war. She is progressing rapidly and substantially, and her interests are expanded along excellent lines."

RABBI FLEISCHER

ENDORSES ELIOT'S RELIGION OF THE FUTURE

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Rabbi Charles Fleischer of the Temple Israel, took occasion in his sermon yesterday to endorse the recent address of President Eliot, of Harvard university, on "The Religion of the Future."

Declaring that in the past four months nothing had happened in the religious world comparable in significance with President Eliot's address, Rabbi Fleischer said:

"I regard it as the noblest, safest, most infallible moral and spiritual formulation of the actual facts of our day which it has been my fortune to meet."

On the front of the badge is the inscription "Inspector of Police, Lowell," while on the reverse side are the words "From His Friends."

The presentation speech was made by Police Commissioner David Parthenais, and "Charlie" though taken entirely by surprise was able to respond with an appropriate speech.

200 Children Confirmed

Immediately after the laying of the corner stone the confirmation of 200 children took place in the church. From the Sacred Heart parish about 150 of the children came, the remainder coming from St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, and St. John's church, North Chelmsford. The rite of confirmation was administered by the archbishop, assisted by Rev. Frs. Smith and Reynolds. Then followed the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The O. M. I. Cadets

Archbishop O'Connell was greatly pleased with the appearance of the O. M. I. Cadets in the parade yesterday afternoon. He witnessed their marching in the Holy Name parade Boston and at that time complimented the spiritual director, Rev. Dr. Sullivan, O. M. I., for the fine appearance and commented on the interest they took in their work.

Yesterday, after the parade and before the archbishop started for Boston, he made known to several of the clergymen the pleasure he felt at seeing the young boys in dress uniform marching as part of his escort, and took occasion to again express his admiration of their marching and alignment. The Cadets made the grandest showing since their organization. There were 267 in line, including the cavalry, infantry and ambulance corps. They had their own band music. The leader of the buglers being Cadet John Baxter. The staff officers were Major Russell Harrington; Adjutant, Charles Farrell; Sergeant Major John Egan; Orderly, Luke McCann; Cadet Aide Edward Cawley. When the Cadets marched before the archbishop in Davis square, they presented arms and the distinguished prelate showed that he was both interested and pleased by rising from his seat in the carriage and returning the greeting of the boys.

After the exercises the Cadets marched to their armory where Mr. Sullivan spoke a few words to them, and told them that he was pleased with their appearance in the parade and urged them to keep up their interest in the organization.

Along the route of parade the spectators were loud in their praise of the young soldiers and also of Fr. Sullivan, who marched at the head of his column of boys.

Anniversary Notes

During his 25 years the Sacred Heart church has given eight young men to become priests, a remarkable showing in so short a period. The names of the priests ordained from this parish and who sang their first solemn high mass in this church are: Rev. W. H. Finnegan, now attached to the Immaculate Conception church, Marlboro; Rev. William Kirwan, O. M. I., now superior at McCook, Neb.; Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O. M. I., now on the faculty of Ottawa university, Canada; Rev. P. E. O'Connell, secretary to His Grace Archbishop O'Connell; Rev. John Sexton, now at Innsbruck, Austria; Rev. Francis X. McGinn, O. M. I., Rev. Jas. E. McDermott, O. M. I., and Rev. Edward J. Fox, O. M. I., attached to the Tewksbury novitiate.

The Sanctuary Choir

The singing by the sanctuary choir under the direction of Mrs. Muldoon was very creditable, showing the result of careful training. The singing of the children of the parochial school under the direction of the Sisters was also worthy of great praise.

Solemn Requiem Mass This Morning

Today at 3 o'clock as a fitting close of the jubilee celebration at the Sacred Heart church there was a solemn requiem mass for the deceased priests and people of the parish. Rev. Fr. Smith was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Reynolds deacon, and Rev. Fr. Fletcher sub-deacon. The sanctuary choir sang the Gregorian requiem with fine effect.

During the morning services the parishioners were well pleased to see Rev. Robert Barratt, O. M. I., in attendance.

Fr. Barratt has been seriously ill during the past several months and it was expected that he would be forced to remain away from the services.

Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., a former priest of the church, was honored a most cordial reception after the 10:30 mass.

Many of the congregation visited Fr. Reynolds after mass and expressed their measure at meeting him once again.

See him today.

BUILT TO BAKE

As in all Household Ranges, THE HOME has removable nickel edges, large roomy oven, extra large fire-box. When used with a water front, the fire-box is larger than the original fire-box. You know what that means? A choice of several grates is offered—all interchangeable without removing the linings, and an original flue construction which insures an even heat on all sides of the oven. The flawless castings have that velvety smoothness which will not crack.

trot, Gradual, Offertory and Communion were chanted by Messrs. Martin Maguire and Henry Curry, assisted by a male chorus of 15 voices. Before the sermon Mr. Maguire rendered Handel's exquisite "Veni Creator," and at the offertory Mrs. McDonough sang the stately jubilee hymn "Tunc Petrus," assisted by the members of the parish.

The church decorations were most artistic. The white marble altars were covered with flowers and resplendent in the light of hundreds of candles and incandescents. The sanctuary was adorned with tropical plants. Along the right side of the church were placed the banners of the different societies of the parish.

Fr. Finnick's Sermon

Rev. Fr. Finnick, now of Marlboro, and though a young man, the oldest priest in point of ordination born in the parish, presided at the sermon. He spoke in part as follows:

Sermon by Rev. Fr. Finnick, G. M. I.
"Go ye, therefore, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; for behold I am with you all day long, even to the consummation of the world."—Matt. 28:19-20.

These words of our blessed Lord, my dear brethren, contain a promise and a promise; we will now see how the promise has been fulfilled and how the promise has been kept. Considering the state of the world at the time nothing short of a divine command could force the apostles to leave their work, nothing less than the assurance of divine assistance could stay their hearts under the terrible trial. Once the Holy Ghost had come down upon the apostles, after our Lord's ascension, filled with the spirit of God, they openly preached Christ crucified, and wrought wonders in his name. In the Acts of Apostles we read that Peter and John were going towards the beautiful gate of the temple; and as they passed by the familiar figure of a lame cripple greeted them, and begged for alms. Peter looked with compassion, and said, "Silver and gold I have not, but what I have I give unto thee; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, arise and walk." Immediately the poor cripple, after 40 years, arose perfectly cured, and glorified God, who had given such power to man. The Jews, hearing the wonder that had been performed, summoned the apostles before the high council and commanded them to go their way and preach no more in the name of Christ crucified. Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost rose up and said, "It is fitting that we obey God rather than man;" and they went their way and continued preaching in the name of Christ. Human power had no fear for them; they preached in the name of Jesus and everywhere they made converts. Finally they were apprehended and thrown into prison; bondage for well nigh three centuries! Then came the torrent of pagan heresies from north and east, which completed the destruction with fire and sword. The church, reassured, created order out of chaos. She first converted the hereticism gathered around her heretics, who spurned the more easily teachable letters and instantaneously regeneration. She then guided them to organize governments and codes. Less than a degree, she abolished slavery and serfdom, and established liberty and equality.

On the one side were arrayed all the powerful influences of the empire, material and intellectual, the writings of pagan philosophers. On the other, an uneducated mob, inspired, however, by a knowledge of the truth and the consciousness of a divine commission. I need not mention the reception accorded these first apostles and teachers of Christ. Take up the history of the church's first three centuries, and there is a story that will send a thrill of horror through the most hardened heart. For three hundred years paganism assailed the church with fire and sword and every conceivable instrument of torture; the blood of her children flowed in torrents, and her martyrs fell by the thousands. With only a few exceptions, the Roman emperors were all, more or less, fierce persecutors of the Christians. But the church had received the solemn promise that "the gates of hell shall not prevail against her." By endurance and patience, armed with the weapons of prayer and sacrifice and deeds of heroic charity, she triumphed over all her powerful enemies and the blood of martyrs served only to fertilize the earth, that it might produce new hosts of children. That persecutions would arise in the church was foretold by her divine founder. "Behold I send you," Christ said to his disciples, "as lambs among wolves; if they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you." The first and also the cause of the hatred that the world bore his followers, and consequently the secret of all persecution against his church. He showed them in these words: "If you had been of the world, the world would love its own, but because you are not of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

No age or condition of life was overlooked, from the little child to the man and the woman, torturing with years from an Agnes to a Polycaste, alike braving every torture, and saving themselves for the truth.

When the Christian church emerged from her cradle of persecution, and girded herself for her work she found a world in ruins. Everything had degenerated, religion both revealed and natural, all virtue and morality, peaceful and domestic life, every bond that binds man to man. Corruption of all kinds prevailed, selfishness, cruelty, unkindness. The whole world, pagan and Jewish, was sprawling with anguish and looking for the coming of some divine power to renew all things. But men would not recognize their deliverer in the person of the Christian church and kept her in their own dignity and rights. The re-

Who Presided at the Sermon

In the struggle for political rights, the church was always the defender of the weak and distressed. The popes were recognized as the arbiters and peacemakers of peace and justice, authority often resting in the papal states, protection was given to the conflicting claims asserted by the papacy, and persecuted saints and martyrs, giving up their lives for the truth.

At the same time the moral character of the church was unimpaired. The教會 maintained its strict and uncompromising discipline and piety, including the observance of its original and unique laws of its present administration, to the arrangement of Roman pontiffs, and the labor of the church.

During the period of the greatest power of the Papacy, the church was a world power, in which, however, it did not last. In the days of the Popes, the church was divided from the state, due to the struggle for independence, and the church was often compelled to take sides in the disputes of the state.

The power of the Papacy, however, was not a factor in the world during this period, as the church was too much bound up in the community's social life to be able to maintain its independence.

6 O'CLOCK

WOMAN POISONED

Alleged That Mrs. Boucher Was Killed by Paris Green

It is alleged that Mrs. Jean Louis Boucher, who died suddenly Friday morning at her home, 130 Merrimack street, was a victim of poison.

The sudden death of the woman and the subsequent arrest of her husband in a complaint of drunkenness caused the police authorities to feel that everything was not all right and an investigation was instituted with the result that Mrs. Boucher's stomach was removed and examined by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs and Dr. O'Hearn and Dr. Pillsbury.

It is alleged Mr. Boucher had been drinking heavily of late, and it is said that early Friday morning he entered the house and that despite the fact that his wife was in a delicate condition he raised ructions and then went out.

SENSATIONAL FLIGHT

Was Made by Hubert Latham at Johannisthal

JOHANNISTHAL, Ger., Oct. 1.—A sensational week was brought to an end yesterday before a very large crowd, which was compensated for the disappointments of the preceding days by a sensational flight after sunset by Hubert Latham. All day long Latham had been dogged by misfortune. First his motor went wrong, then the accumulators became deranged and the ignition was defective. At length, after three failures, he made an easy start, but it was two minutes after sunset and although he reached a height estimated at 500 feet, 20 feet higher than Rougier's record of Saturday, he was disqualified.

Latham rose immediately to a great height and flew repeatedly around the field. He hovered above the tribunes with absolute stability amid great enthusiasm on the part of the spectators. When he reached his highest altitude he stopped the engine and glided down so swiftly that he appeared to fall fully 300 feet while everybody held their breath. At this point he started his motor again and made a safe and easy landing. Hundreds of the spectators leaped the barriers and invaded the field, carrying Latham shoulder high to the stand, where he was the object of uproarious demonstrations. Latham estimated that he ascended between 600 and 1000 feet, the officials signalled 500 feet. Following were the winners of the competitions as announced by the officials:

Long distance contest, $10,000 and City of Berlin cup, won by Rougier, 120 kilometers (74 miles).

Durability contest, won by Rougier, 2 hours, 38 minutes, 15' 2" seconds.

Speed event, 20 kilometers, won by Latham, $3250. Time—18 minutes 15' 2" seconds.

Height prize, won by Rougier, $2500; 350 feet.

LAPORTE, Ind., Oct. 4.—Believing that Ray Lamphere, who was convicted as an accomplice of the arch murdereress Mrs. Guinness, has but a few days more to live, State's Attorney Smith is confident that the man will make a confession, clearing up every detail of the Guinness death farm mystery when he realizes that his end is at hand. Up to the present time, he has protested persistently that he knows nothing about how Mrs. Guinness killed and disposed of her victims. Lamphere has consumed.

12 HOUR SPEECH

Was Delivered by Ex-Judge Dewey

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Former Judge Henry S. Dewey, "theater candidate for governor of Massachusetts," established what is believed to be a new world's record for endurance in open air public speaking in the opening speech of his campaign on Boston common yesterday.

Standing on the sloping greenward at the foot of the Soldiers' monument, he talked from 6 o'clock in the morning until 8 in the evening, with an intermission of 25 minutes for breakfast and another of five minutes while a man of anarchist tendencies aired his views.

JOHNSON—Julius C. Johnson, aged 72 years and 7 months, died Saturday evening at his late home, 32 Dover street. He was a lingering illness and his fortune was great.

Mr. Johnson was born at Somers, Conn., the son of Abiah and Eliza (Peck) Johnson. The father was a lawyer, having graduated from Brown University in 1853, and Yale law in 1855. When the son Julius was but three years old the family moved to New Haven, Conn., where he attended regularly, and was a man of strict integrity. He is survived by his wife, with whom he has lived for 45 years.

Johnson was appointed to lead the printer's trade at Hartford, Conn. He settled in Springfield, Mass., remaining there until 1870, when he came to Lowell, where he became a prominent member of the printing trade. In 1870 he established a printing school, and received a company of boys and girls to receive an education. At the age of 16 he was appointed to lead the printer's trade at Hartford, Conn.

At the close of this remarkable performance, Mr. Dewey's voice was as clear as when he began, and he expressed himself as feeling all right, except that he was a little stiff from long standing.

BOYS WON PRIZES

Manager Gray Pulled Off Auto Races Today

With the second national stock chassis competition auto race still fresh in the minds of the automobile enthusiasts of this city, several hundred persons made their way to the Pawtucketville course Saturday to witness the Auto-Pushcart race which was held over the specially constructed smooth paved course in Merrimac road, between Fourth and Eighth avenues.

The course starts at the corner of Eighth avenue and Merrimac road, down one side of the latter through to Fourth avenue and then up the other side of Merrimac road to the starting point. The course was in the best of condition and the race was run without any accidents.

Long before the time for the starting of the race approached, both sides of the street as well as various points in abutting yards were filled with people. In the meantime the young drivers and their mechanicians and their home-made automobiles were tuning the latter up.

By 3:30 o'clock everything was in readiness for the event and from that time until 11:30 o'clock there was nothing but a whizzing of automobiles and old timers by the scores as a favorite driver made a big gain.

The machines were divided into six classes as follows:

At the conclusion of the big race a consolation race was held, the entrants being confined to those who had participated in the big race but who failed to land a prize.

In the second half, the ball was kicked back and forth, Lowell having the advantage in the kicking, until Williams tried an on-side kick. Curley recovered the ball, and there was but one player near him. It was an easy matter to dodge him, and Curley ran 40 yards down the field for a touchdown. Ed Puttert failed to kick a goal, and the score stood: Lowell 10, Wellington 6.

Wellington kicked to Lowell, when there was five minutes to play. At this point Clegg, Bartt sent in the substitutes, and the freshman started to turn up the game. Third came the play by Lowell. Curley, Connelly and O'Bryan were sent through the line to protect, and the constant battering paid off on the visitors. Good gains were made by Donovan, who, by the way, played a star game, and won one minute to play. Curley was buried over the line for the winning touchdown. Rooney kicked a good goal, and the final score was 11 to 6, with Lowell at the long end.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Hans Holmer of Quebec defeated St. Yves, the French Marathon champion, winner of the big derby at New York this spring, in a race at the full Marathon distance on the National grounds, yesterday afternoon. St. Yves collapsed in the second and last of the 25-mile race. NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4.—Yale's first Cox, Eddie, scored a brilliant and way up to that point, but had never been able to shake off the Vise Canadian, Conner, running to each step in close behind St. Yves all the way along the 25-mile road.

Going into the 25-mile, Holmer started to force St. Yves along at a faster pace, and on the second lap, while apparently as strong as ever, St. Yves dropped to the ground as if shot. He was given help and stood again, but after other attempts were forced to give up. An examination by a doctor showed that he was suffering from some form of heart trouble. Holmer finished out the race alone and in the fast time of 2h. 52m. 48s., which is the American record.

Doctors say St. Yves will probably be unable to run again.

ST. BERNARD DOG

Lived Four Months With Hat Pin in His Stomach

A St. Bernard pup, owned by F. J. he cut an incision about an inch and a half long in the tumor. His blistery, blistered skin, came in contact with some acid, which may have dislodged him some, but it did not remove the pin. The dog was possibly a broken rib. He soon became worse, however, that there was a great deal of pain around the abdomen and rectum, and the dog died.

The St. Bernard is eight months old. It was found to have a swelling back of the last rib. There was not a twist or a bend in it. It continued to increase in size and at the last visit to the doctor said that the dog was perfectly healthy. The case is a most unusual one. "The dog is a good dog," said the doctor, "passed through his intestines and through every organ in his body."

He found a small tumor and in order to treat it properly it was necessary to put the dog under general anesthesia. The dog is now perfectly healthy. I consider it to be a very remarkable case and I will send it to the veterinary museum in Washington."

Wellington Defeated in Last Few Minutes of Play

The football season in this city was back about half the length of the field. By a series of line rushes Exeter sent Cornell over the line for the first score.

In the second half Wise booted the ball to Pearson, who made a good return and a series of line plunges resulted in the second goal for Exeter.

Exeter's heavy backs then struck the line for a series of gains which resulted in their last touchdown, Downing kicking the goal.

THE COTTON BELT

Conditions Seem to Be
Getting Worse

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—Taking the cotton belt as a whole, there has been no marked change, and the change, if any, has been toward further deterioration, according to the Times Democrat's cotton crop bulletin for the month of September.

Continuing the bulletin says:

"The storm of Sept. 29 did great damage in the district which came within its sweep."

"Picking has made rapid progress, and there is generally an abundance of labor for this purpose."

"Farmers seem disposed to sell at current prices, at least enough to pay their debts, but a considerable part of the crop is likely to be held for an advance later on."

"The boll weevil has wrought havoc in certain sections, but the intense heat minimized the loss from this pest."

"The next report will be printed on Monday, Nov. 29."

LOSS REDUCED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—While the first estimates of the damage done the cotton crop of Louisiana and Mississippi by the hurricane of Sept. 26 have been greatly reduced, the loss sustained both in the amount of yield and condition of the staple is considerably according to the Pictures. In many sections some of the cotton raised to the ground by the violent winds has been saved by heroic work, but the quality and grade have been seriously affected.

It is estimated that in 10 or 15 days most of the fields will be entirely clear and all cotton will have been harvested.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Mr. Henry W. Savage has struck the "big nail" of success with the head with his production of the dazzling military operetta, "The Gay Hussars," which will be given at the Opera House tonight. "The Gay Hussars" possesses the three most important elements of success in an opera—a fine score, an interesting and romantic story and a well selected cast of players.

In presenting "The Gay Hussars" Mr. Savage has introduced a number of new artists to playgoers. Miss Muriel Terry, who plays the role of Volunteer Cadet Marost, is the mat woman in years to score a big success in a boy's character. Hitherto Miss Terry had been identified with Grand Opera. She was mezzo soprano at the Hof and National Theatre in Mannheim. Miss Florence Field, who plays the Baroness Tresszka, made her stage debut at the premiere of "The Gay Hussars" at the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York. This is the first example on record of a girl making her stage debut on Broadway in an important role and scoring a hit.

Although Bobby North has been a vaudeville star for five or six years his role of Sub-Lieutenant Wallerstein in "The Gay Hussars" is the first important character that he has created. His artistic handling of this part and the success he has attained in it give him an important position among leading comedians. Miss Anna Bussert, the prima donna, by her dramatic and vocal work in "The Gay Hussars" has added to the excellent reputation she achieved last season in the title

JAMES T. POWERS IN "HAVANA" AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE, BOSTON.

MAJESTIC THEATRE, BOSTON

James T. Powers will begin a limited engagement in the big musical comedy success of the year, "Havana," which comes to Boston direct from an engagement of two seasons at the Casino theatre, New York City. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The company will be brought intact from the Casino theatre and production and costumes stage the same as seen during the long New York run.

The story of "Havana" involves the usual revolutions found in tropical climes, and an American sailor, Nix by name, has as a counterpart a pretty love name. It seems that this Nix, serving as Consul and J. D. ten years prior to the opening of the play, peyster Jackson, a young American, visited Havana and married one of the pretty girls found there. "FIT CITIZEN"

Subject of Rev. B. A. Willmott's Sermon

MUST BE ABOVE CLASSES AND CREDITS

Rev. James E. Gregg, New Pastor of Kirk Street Church, Preached Yesterday—Y. M. C. A. Arranges a Reception to Dr. and Mrs. Yarnell

At the First Congregational church Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, began a series of Sunday night sermons, the general topic being "The Fit Citizen." He said that the fit citizen must be above classes, above creeds, and that America must never bring him to her life; the old divisions which have cursed Europe. He said that a man who appeals to class, to creed, division, is a great enemy of our republic.

Kirk Street Church

There were few vacant seats in the Kirk Street church yesterday. Rev. James E. Gregg, who began his pastorate with the Friday night meeting, was the preacher and besides a large attendance of members of the congregation, many were present from other churches. The subject of the preacher's sermon was "God's Workmanship" and the congregation was favorably impressed by the young minister. Rev. Mr. Gregg is 32 years of age and has had one pastorate before coming to Lowell. That was in Pittsfield, where he built up a strong church.

Rev. C. E. Fisher

At the First Universalist church in Hill street, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, struck the keynote of optimism and there was a good musical program. "Cheer up" was the topic of Rev. Mr. Fisher's talk and he advised his listeners to look on the bright side of things. He said that the trouble with most of us is we are too selfish and he said it would be well for us to forget ourselves at times and think that we are living for someone else.

Reception to Dr. Yarnell

Arrangements have been completed for the reception to Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Yarnell at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening when Lowell people will have an opportunity to meet the new secretary. The ladies' auxiliary has the matron's charge and there will be orchestra music during the evening and refreshments will be served.

Former Supervisor Morse has accepted a position as general secretary of the association at Norwich Conn. His father and mother will move from Northampton, Mass., and will make their home with him.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. James Hill of this city and Miss Martin Calley of East Chelmsford were united in marriage last Friday evening, October 1, at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. A. Connel, 88 Gates street. The bridegroom was the bride's brother, John Calley of the second United States artillery, stationed at West Point, but now at home on a short furlough. The bride was the bride's cousin, Miss Edith Brown of East Chelmsford. The bride was gowned in blue satin with white lace trimmings, and the bridegroom in black similarly trimmed. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's father, Hugh Calley, on Centre Street, East Chelmsford, attended by a considerable number of friends. Mr. Hill is a respected employee of the City Iron Foundry, and the home of the couple will be on Centre Street, East Chelmsford.

MARSHALL—GOW

Mr. David Marshall and Miss Christina Gow, late of Scotland, were married Sept. 30, by Rev. Samuel Jackson, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Strachan, 92 Belgrave Street. The bridegroom, Miss Annie Strachan, was a cousin of the groom, and Mr. John Johnston was best man.

home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Marshall, Mapleview farm, Marlow, N. H., Wednesday, Sept. 29th, at 6 p. m., when their daughter, Doris Ender, and Mr. Guy Frank Huntley, were united in marriage by Rev. W. H. Leitch, pastor of the Methodist church of Marlow. The house was prettily decorated with fir balsam, scarlet geraniums, dahlias and white phlox.

The bridal party stood in a bower of balsam. The bride wore white Persian lawn trimmed with French lace, insertion and lace, and carried white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva F. Huntley, sister of the bridegroom, wore white lawn and carried pink carnations. The best man was Eugene Marshall of Lowell, Mass., cousin of the bride. The bridal march from Lowengarten was rendered by Miss Florence A. Cutler of Pelham, N. H. A reception was held from 7 until 9. Music was furnished by Miss Cutler. The ushers were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley P. Marshall of Tyngsboro, Mass.; assisted by Mr. John C. Felker of Boston, Mass., and Mr. Burton W. Sherburne of Pelham, N. H.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Elmer French, Mrs. John Pitcher, Mrs. Fred Huntley, Miss Viola M. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Huntley were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents of which Mrs. G. W. Sherburne took charge. The happy couple departed with a shower of rice and confetti for a short wedding trip which will include Boston and Charlestown, Mass., and many other places. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for a happy wedded life.

ROSARY SUNDAY*Observed in the Catholic Churches

The annual rosary procession was held yesterday afternoon at St. Patrick's church. At 2:30 o'clock solemn vespers were celebrated by Rev. Joseph Curtin, and he was assisted by Rev. John J. McHugh, an deacon and Rev. Timothy Callahan as sub-deacon.

The procession was formed after the services and, headed by Rev. Fr. Callahan, marched through the aisle to Fenwick street and back by the main entrance.

Following Fr. Callahan were the cross bearer and acolytes. Then came two hundred or more of the little boys and girls followed by the older children representing the Mysteries of the Rosary. The Joyful Mysteries were represented by girls, the Sorrowful Mysteries by boys and the Glorious Mysteries by older girls. The Sacred Heart sodality of girls followed and they preceded the members of St. Cecilia's choir. The Children of Mary sodality came next and they were followed by the young men's society and the Immaculate Conception sodality. The Holy Family sodality was last in line of the societies, and they preceded the members of the sanctuary choir and the officiating clergymen, Rev. Fr. Curtin and Rev. Mr. McHugh. As the line moved through and out of the church the members recited the rosary.

On the return to the church there was the recitation of the rosary and benediction.

At 11 o'clock a. m., a solemn high mass was celebrated, Rev. Fr. Curtin officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. McHugh as deacon and Rev. Fr. Callahan, sub-deacon. The sermon on the gospel of the day, was preached by Rev. Fr. McHugh. The responses of the mass were by the sanctuary choir and special music was given by the church organist under the direction of Mr. Michael J. Johnson. A large congregation was in attendance.

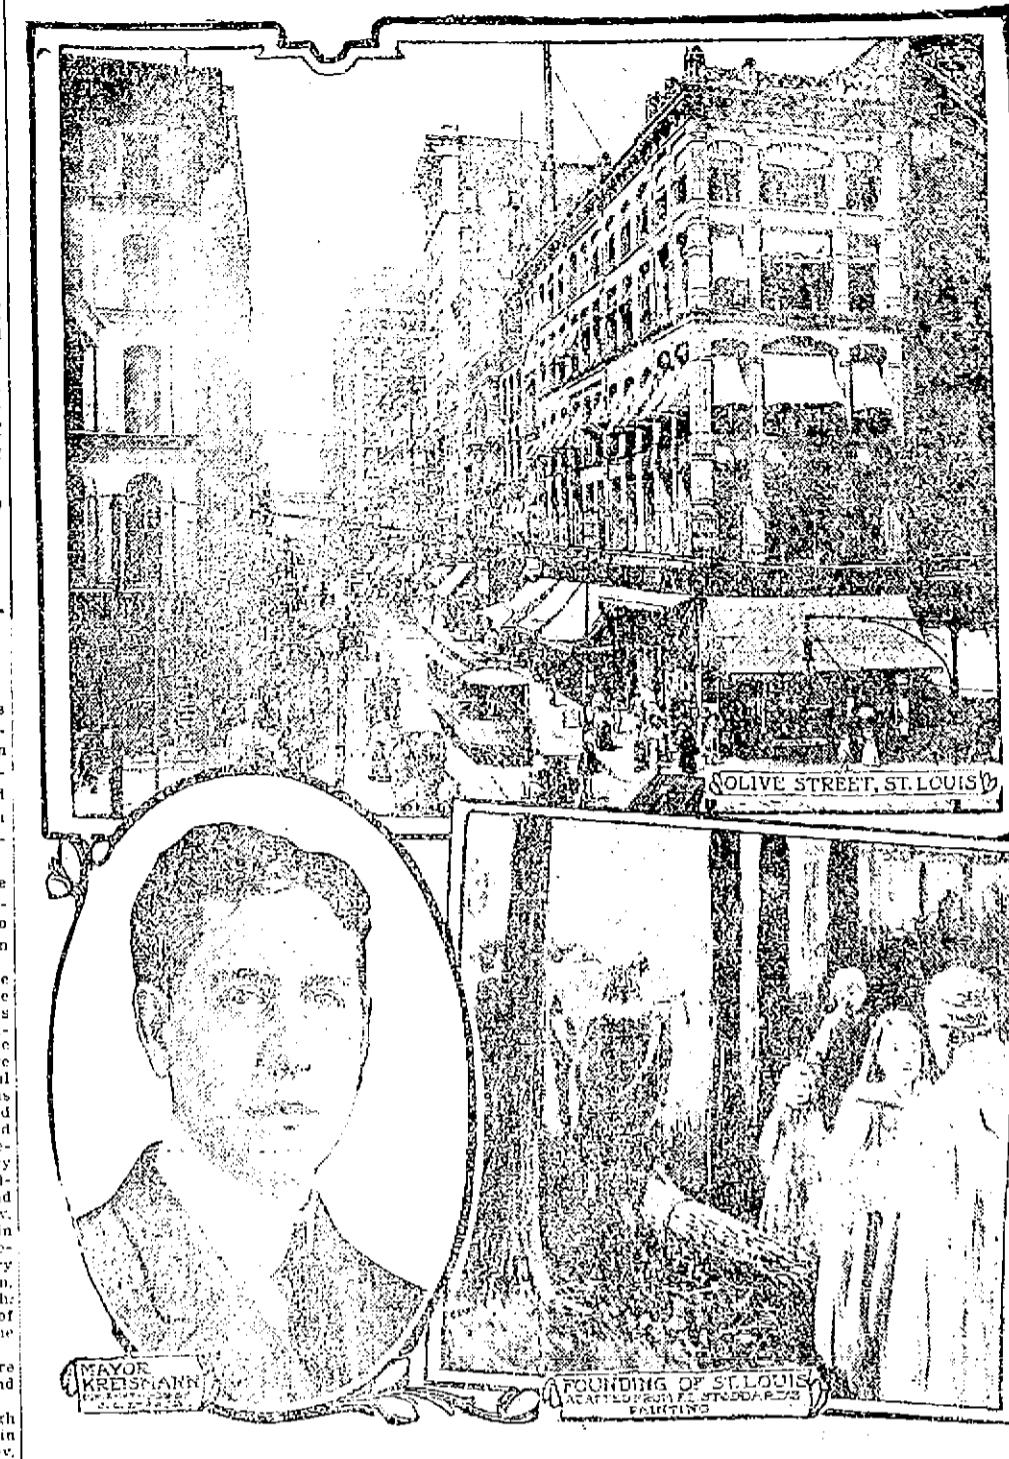

The members of the Catholic Young Men's League attended communion in a body at the 12 o'clock mass yesterday. They marched from the society's rooms in Suffolk street to the church and were assigned to seats in the centre aisle. Rev. John J. McHugh, spiritual director of the organization, was celebrant of the mass. Mr. Hill is a respected employee of the City Iron Foundry, and the home of the couple will be on Centre Street, East Chelmsford.

Immaculate Conception

At the church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday there was celebrated as is the annual custom, the feast of the most holy rosary. There were special services morning and night.

The solemn mass was sung by Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I., formerly of this city, but now of Duck Creek near Green Bay, Wis. The deacon was Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., and the sub-deacon, Rev. William Patton, O. M. I. The sermon on the rosary was by Rev. John P. O'Brien, O. M. I., and was largely historical in character. The music was by the choir directed by Mrs. Hugh Walker, organist. The mass was Krawntzke's. At the offertory Mrs. E. P. McGarr sang with much feeling Henshaw Dame's "Ave Maria." Mrs. Walker played the congregation out with a brilliant "Regina Coeli" as postlude.

In the afternoon many new members were received into the Holy Rosary society by Rev. Fr. O'Brien, and the pastor, Rev. George J. Nolan, O. M. I., spoke briefly to them on the society and its benefits.

MAYOR OF ST. LOUIS AND VIEWS OF CITY WHICH HOLDS BIG CENTENNIAL FESTIVAL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—This city began yesterday the biggest historical celebration in its history. The parade and ball of the trading post in 1664 by Pierre La Vérendrye, discoverer of the Red River, the Spanish government. It was in 1809, made of more than 500 cities and exchanges at various historical places, which made St. Louis a part of the United States, that the town, with a population of about 1000 persons, was to pay such homage to Dr. Cook as it has to no other private citizen. The announcement created considerable interest, the fact being that Mr. McHugh, the Irish leader, forced an early dissolution of parliament and the expatriate campaign work of the central election in which he hoped to see a delegation of 50 nationalities holding the balance of power.

There were also addresses by James A. Jordan of Boston, and C. Conroy of Boston, a Boston journalist. General Remond opened the meeting and died upon Mr. J. J. Gallagher, 30, of Boston, the German read letters from the national president, announcing the coming of T. P. O'Connor, M. Mr. O'Connell Galvin of Boston was introduced and spoke in eloquent terms of the grand ovation given to Captain Condon and John O'Callaghan, now visiting the old land. He recalled the fact that Captain Condon had been sentenced to death and would have been executed if the Manchester martyrs but for the fact that he was an American citizen. He was born back more than 42 years ago and is honored by the people of all classes

Celebrant of the Jubilee Mass

Rev. Brothers Wood, Roache, Chaput, J. O'Brien, Barry McCay, Blissette, Anthony, McDermott, McCarlton, Webb, Boddy, Loftus, Haley, Jallert and McLoughlin. The novices from the novitiate who were present were: Brothers Pachone, Moriarty, Mahan, T. O'Brien, McDermott, Powers, Fallon and Burns, 200 Children Confirmed.

Immediately after the laying of the corner stone the confirmation of 200 children took place in the church. From the Sacred Heart parish about 150 of the children came, the remainder coming from St. Andrew's church, North Billerica and St. John's church, North Chelmsford. The rite of confirmation was administered by the archbishop assisted by Rev. Frs. Smith and Reynolds. Then followed the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Archbishop O'Connell left for Boston with Fr. Coppering in a limousine car shortly after 4 o'clock.

The O. M. I. Cadets

Archbishop O'Connell was greatly pleased with the appearance of the O. M. I. Cadets in the parade yesterday afternoon. He witnessed their marching in the Holy Name parade in Boston and at that time complimented their spiritual director, Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., for their fine appearance and commented on the interest they took in their work. Yesterday, after the parade and before the archbishop started for Boston, he made known to several of the clergymen the pleasure he felt at seeing the young boys in dress uniform marching as part of his escort, and took occasion to again express his admiration of their marching and alignment. The Cadets made the grandest showing since their organization. There were 237 in line, including the cavalry, infantry and ambulance corps. They had their own field music, the leader of the buglers being Cadet John Baker. The staff officers were Major Russell Harrington; Adjutant, Charles Carroll; Sergeant Major, John Egan; orderly, Luke McCann; Cadet Aide Edward Cawley. When the Cadets marched before the archbishop in Davis square, they presented arms and the distinguished prelate showed that he was both interested and pleased by rising from his seat in the carriage and returning the greeting of the boys.

After the exercises the Cadets marched to their armory where Fr. Sullivan spoke a few words to them and told them that he was pleased with their appearance in the parade and promised to keep their interest in the organization.

Along the route of parade the spectators were loud in their praise of the young soldiers and also of Fr. Sullivan, who marched at the head of his column of boys.

Anniversary Notes

During the 25 years the Sacred Heart church has given eight young men to the priesthood, a remarkable showing in so short a period. The names of the priests ordained from this parish and who sang their first solemn high mass in this church are: Rev. W. H. Blinnick, now attached to the Immaculate Conception church, Methuen; Rev. William Kevin, O. M. I., now superior at McCook, Neb.; Rev. Dennis Flynn, O. M. I., now of the faculty of the Iowa University, Cambria; Rev. James P. O'Connell, secretary to His Grace Archbishop O'Connell; Rev. John Sexton, now of Innsbruck, Austria; Rev. Francis N. McLean, O. M. I.; Rev. Jas. E. McDermott, O. M. I. and Rev. Edward J. Fox, O. M. I., attached to the Townsbury novitiate.

The Sanctuary Choir

The singing by the sanctuary choir under the direction of Mrs. Muldowney was very creditable, showing the result of careful training. The singing of the children of the parochial school under the direction of the Sisters was also worthy of great praise.

Solemn Requiem Mass This Morning

Today at 10 o'clock as a fitting close to the jubilee celebration at the Sacred Heart church there was a solemn requiem mass for the deceased priests and people of the parish. Rev. Fr. Steinhoff was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Bresnahan, deacon and Rev. Fr. Fletcher subdiacon. The sanctuary choir sang the Gregorian repertory with the effect of the morning service of the previous year. The singing was well received and Rev. Robert Bennett, O. M. I., the administrator, the parochial school, has been serving the diocese for the past seven or eight years, and it was expected that he would be offered to receive away from his present position.

Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., a former pastor of the church, was honored with a special appointment after the Mass.

GOVERNMENT'S CASE

In the New Foundland Fisheries Controversy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—By the terms of the special agreement, signed January 27 last, between the United States and Great Britain, the state department today, through Chandler Anderson of the fisheries division of that department, filed with the British embassy here the government's case in the New Foundland fisheries controversy. The case of the British government also will be filed today with the American ambassador at London. The American case proper consists of one printed volume of medium size with two other volumes of testimony.

This record together with that of Great Britain will immediately be submitted to the international bureau at The Hague. According to the special agreement of February 4th, counter briefs in each case are required to be filed and by April 1, 1910, printed arguments must be ready. It is expected that early in May the arbitrators who already have been appointed will meet at The Hague to hear final arguments and make decisions on the questions involved. It is hoped that a final determination of these questions will be reached by the beginning of August next year, in time for the opening of the next fishing season. Until these questions are settled by The Hague tribunal, the fishing on the New Foundland coast is being carried on under an extension of the modus vivendi of last year.

The question of the right to purchase bait in New Foundland to fish on Sundays and other restrictions have long been a source of much annoyance to American fishermen who hope they will be relieved by decision of the arbitrators of The Hague tribunal.

FARMER BURIED THE ICE TRUST

Men Are Trying to Rescue Him

Pleads Not Guilty to Indictment

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—All night long and during the day relays of men were engaged in sinking a new shaft alongside of the well at the bottom of which lies John Coffen, the young farmer who was buried by a cave-in while deepening the well on his father's farm, two miles north of Central Islip, L. I., yesterday morning. Although there is a possibility that the crossbeams at the bottom of the well may have given way for a short time, there is not believed to be more than one chance in a thousand that he could keep alive until the men now at work can reach the place where he must be. He is 60 feet from the surface and there is 30 feet of sand and clay on top of him.

Constable Schwartz, who has charge of the men at work, said today that it might be three or four days before Coffen could be reached and that in his opinion there was not the slightest chance of finding him alive. An expert well digger has been summoned to help in the work.

LIFE SENTENCE
Wealthy Man Convicted of Murder

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 4.—If Charles R. Smith, one of Mississippi's wealthiest citizens who has been committed to the penitentiary to serve a life term for the murder of E. P. Laurent of Nashville, who was a traveling salesman for a St. Louis firm, is he must go to the hospital. If not, he must labor like any other convict.

This is the effect sent to the prison officials by Gov. Noel when the governor was informed by members of the Travelers' Protective Association that favoritism was being shown Smith; that he was given liberty to roam at will and that he was not working for the state at all.

Prison officials admit that Smith has been appointed a "trusty."

Traveling men assisted in convicting Smith, who defended himself by claiming the unwritten law first and insinuating afterward.

SPANISH COUNCIL
Divided on the Moroccan Campaign

MADRID, Oct. 4.—The extension of the field operations in Africa by the dispatch of reinforcements to General Martínez is further complicated by the possibility of a regular declaration of war between Morocco and Spain. While the Cortes is closed the council of state is obliged to authorize unspent expenditures and rumors are about today of dissensions in the council. It is understood that the military party, the influence of which is growing now insists that the military efforts and sacrifices in Africa must be paid by the permanent occupation of the Morocco coast between Cape Trafalgar and Tétuan. King Alfonso is disposed to sympathize with the claims of the militarists but an unexpected proposal has arisen in the council where the two liberals who have been opposing the campaign in Morocco as a military adventure have been joined by another liberal creating a tie in the council.

OLD SAM CRANE
Former Lowell Player in Hard Luck

Poor old Sam Crane, the famous ball player and one of the old-time Lowell baseball artists, is down and out in New York from ill health, and the New York Elks, of which he is a popular member, are getting up a testimonial for him for the purpose of sending him to Colorado. Their first response was from Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit team, who has agreed to play a game with the New York Yanks on Wednesday, the proceeds of which will go to the testimonial fund.

The word came to Lowell today to Hugh Blaney, the popular soloist, who is playing this week at the Hathaway theatre. Mr. Blaney is a member of the New York Lodge and he received notice of the testimonial this morning from his exalted ruler with the request to notify any of Crane's Lowell friends that if they cared to assist in this worthy object they could send their remittances to the Exalted Ruler, New York Lodge, No. 1, New York city. A Sun reporter upon learning of the unusual testimonial invited Jim Gutworth, the former ball player, now steward of Lowell Lodge, Mr. Gutworth said: "Sam was a great player in his day and as fine a man as ever donned a uniform. He was a prime favorite here years ago and the old timers ought to help him if it is only to send on the price of an admission ticket."

This month's Base Ball Magazine contains a particularly interesting article on "Base Ball in Lowell" from the trenchant pen of Herb Webster. Sir, who is a fan of the 33d degree, is well known to anyone who spent an afternoon in the grandstand in Spalding park. As Herb has the writer beaten a few years on age, we are quoting the following from his article:

In the first place Bill Hawes is the only man now in Lowell who played with Sam Crane on the Lowell team. Lowell started its first professional club in 1875 when Sam Crane, John Morrill, Curry Foley and other stars came here, the team having been a sort of amateur team or semi-professional before that time. On the Lowell team with Crane in '75 were Sam short stop, Lew Brown, catcher; Joe White, r. f.; "Curry" Foley, pitcher; John Morrill, second base; Al McKinnon, second base; "Dude" Cook, c; Jack Woodhead, third base and Pike, h. In 1877 Lowell had a world championship team and again Sam Crane was in the lineup. In '78 he played second base and a look at the names is sufficient to convince any fan who has ever followed baseball that he has had a team in those days.

Besides Sam, there was Tom Wright, r. f.; Arthur Whitney, ss; George Stoughton, c; "Curry" Foley, p; Sam Wright, ss; "Denny" (now Rev. Dennis) Sullivan, c; Frank Whitney, c; Billy Hawes, c; John Piggott, 1b and Duke Cook, sub. This team won the championship of the world. Sam Crane was a popular lad in Lowell in those days. After going to the big league Crane was a frequent visitor to Lowell as his brother "Seth" Crane lived here. The latter will be recalled by local theatregoers as the bass singer in the Mason-Mangia company in "Friend Fritz," which played here some years ago.

trot, Gradual, Offertorium and Communion were chanted by Messrs. Maguire and Henry Curry, assisted by a male chorus of 15 voices. Before the sermon Mr. Maguire recited Handel's exquisite "Veni Creator," and at the offertory Mrs. McCloud sang the stately jubilee hymn "Tu es Petrus," assisted by the full choir.

The church decorations were most artistic. The white marble alters were covered with flowers and resplendent in the light of hundreds of candles and lighted up his soul; and from the incandescent. The sanctuary was never so resplendent before; he became the most adorned with tropical plants. Along either side of the church were aro-placed the banners of the different societies of the parish.

Fr. Finn's Sermon

Rev. Fr. Finnick, nov. of Marlboro, and though a young man the oldest priest in point of ordination born in the parish, preached the sermon. He spoke in part as follows:

"Go ye therefore, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you alldays, even to the consummation of the world." — Matt. 28:19-20.

The words of our blessed Lord my dear brethren, contain a great promise which we will now see have been fulfilled as has been fulfilled, and how the promise has been kept. Considering the state of the world at the time nothing short of a divine command could force the apostles to take up the work, nothing less than the assurance of divine assistance could stay their hearts under the terrible trials. Once the last great host had come down upon the apostles after our Lord's ascension filled with the spirit of faith they openly preached Christ everywhere without wonder in his name. In the Acts of Apostles we read that Peter and John were going towards the beautiful gate of the temple, and as they passed by the familiar figure of a cripple crept from them, and being cured lay prostrate on the ground. Peter looked with compassion and said "Silver and gold I have not, but what I have I give unto thee; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth arise and walk." Immediately the poor cripple, after 10 years, arose perfectly cured, and glorified God, who had given such power to man. The Jews, hearing the wonder that had been performed, summoned the apostles before the high council and commanded them to go their way and preach no more in the name of Christ, sacrificed. Peter replied with the bold reply "We ought to obey God rather than men" and they went their way and continued preaching in the name of Christ. Human power had no fear for them; they preached in the name of Jesus, and everywhere they made converts. Finally they were apprehended and thrown into prison, there they languished until trial, when they were sentenced to be scourged and sent on their way. They still continued the work of Christ's ministry. From Palestine Peter went through Antioch down into Rome. Here again the Jews filled with hatred against Christ persecuted the chief of the Apostles and sentenced him to death on the cross.

In the same Acts of the Apostles we read of a certain Saul. Filled with hatred against the Christians, he persecuted them wherever he went. On the road to Damascus, breaching vengeance against the Christians, he was suddenly struck blind, fallen to the earth, and a voice from heaven cried,

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against the goad." At the same time grace of the light of hundreds of candles and lighted up his soul; and from the incandescent.

The sanctuary was never so resplendent before; he became the most adorned with tropical plants. Along either side of the church were aro-placed the banners of the different societies of the parish.

The Roman empire, then at the pinnacle of its greatness, was sunk in gross idolatry; a free church in a free state was unheard of, the emperor, indeed, both, and his authority were unquestioned. The Roman empire, resplendent, was made up, not of the few provinces scattered about Italy, but it comprised the whole civilized world from Palestine to Rome, all under the dominion of the emperor. Civilization had reached the highest point, but it was a godless civilization. An ancient historian declared that "power, riches, and the lack of religion had reduced the people to such a condition morally that they could neither square their consciences, nor yet accept a remedy for them."

Later this vast sea, abounding with monsters of every species, the first fishermen of the gospel, were commanded to cast their nets. To human wisdom, it seemed a foolhardy undertaking. That system of idolatry which they were commissioned to destroy, was venerable by its antiquity, powerful by its close alliance to the state, glorious in its history to which the triumph of the Roman genius was attributed, and no doubt, acceptable to pleasure-loving people, who found in its precepts no obstacle to the gratification of their Heavious desires.

The disciples of Jesus came to preach a new doctrine, which had nothing in common with the old—the unity and trinity of God, the incarnation, death and resurrection of Christ, the only begotten Son of God; the soul's immortality; and salvation the one thing necessary; the eternal rewards of the just, and punishment of sinners; the glory of this world "vanity;" its wisdom folly; and its strength weakness; the forgiveness of injuries; and peace to be found in suffering. They were sent to preach doctrines far above the intellects of the philosophers or of the peasant, to incite virtues which were impossible of practice to poor human nature unaided by divine grace.

On the one side were arrayed all the powerful influences of the empire, material and intellectual, the writings of pagan philosophers. On the other, a few uneducated men, inspired, however, by a knowledge of the truth and the consciousness of divine commission. I need not mention the reception accorded these first apostles and teachers of Christ. Take up the history of the church's first three centuries, and there is a story that will send a thrill of horror through the most hardened heart. For three hundred years paganism assailed the church with iron and sword and every conceivable instrument of torture; the blood of her children flowed in torrents, and her martyrs fell by the thousands. With only a few exceptions, the Roman emperors were all more or less fierce persecutors of the Christians. But the church had received the solemn promise that "the gates of hell shall not prevail against her." By endurance and patience, armed with the weapons of prayer and sacrifice and deeds of heroic charity, she triumphed over all her powerful enemies and the blood of martyrs served only to fertilize the earth, that it might produce her new hosts of children. These persecutions would arise in the church was foretold by her divine founder. "Behold I send you," Christ said to his disciples "as lambs among wolves; if they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you." The first and also chief cause of the hatred that the world bore his followers, and consequently the secret of all persecution against his church. He showed them in these words: "If you had been of the world, the world would love its own; but because you are not of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

No age or condition of life was overlooked, from the little child to the man and the woman, torturing with years from an Agnes to a Procyne, all either beheaded, every torture, and gaze in their lives for the pain. When the Christian church emerged from her cradle of persecution, and gazed herself for her work she found a world in ruin. Everything had been ruined, religion both revealed and natural, civilization, science, art, music, philosophy, inspiration to them from her doctrine, and consecrating them to her worship. It must suffice to say that every science, geography, history, literature and philosophy, medicine and astronomy owes its original creation and most of its present advancement to the encouragement of Roman paganism, and the labors of monks and priests.

In the struggle for political rights the church was always the defender on the weak and the oppressed. The popes were recognized as the arbiters and protectors of Europe, and their authority often maintained and enforced, especially without fear of the emperor and with only a faint protest from the church. The Catholic church alone faithful to the divine command "do not resist evil" stands out against all such efforts, holding forth the authority of Christ.

The church is the greatest civilizer of nations. She established learning at a time when man despised only beasts. She founded schools and universities, everywhere offered education to all, educated the nobility, promising students from every rank and created great careers before them. She also educated in all its branches painting, sculpture, architecture, musical composition, inspiration to them from her doctrine, and consecrating them to her worship. It must suffice to say that every science, geography, history, literature and philosophy, medicine and astronomy owes its original creation and most of its present advancement to the encouragement of Roman paganism, and the labors of monks and priests.

In these times the moral character of Christianity was formed. The universal patriarchalism of God and the teachable love of man were set forth during the first three centuries of the church's existence.

The figure of the Virgin Mother of God was placed before women, who had been degraded by paganism, and they saw in her the sweet ideal of purity for the Christian maiden and fidelity for the Christian wife.

During the 9th and 10th centuries, the church of Ireland spread in the full beauty of youth. There was not a country in the world during this period where the boast of plots, foundations or religious communities equal to those that adorned that far distant land.

During this period the famous monasteries of Clonard and Bangor were founded, in which housed thousands of men. In these happy days Ireland was the New Rome, or the Holy Land, and people flocked from all parts of Europe to take refuge from the pestilence on the continent, or to travel to America to study on the projects of building the undisturbed retreats of the Irish monasteries.

The church of Ireland is the greatest teacher of moral law ever known since the creation, when Christ said to His twelve apostles, "and when the church is built upon the rock, the gates of hell cannot prevail against it. Not one particle of the impudent is it allowed to do, but the body, heart and mind are sound morally and harmlessly developed. Thus the church is doing throughout the world, and especially in our own country, where the parochial system of schools is so flourishing.

God grant the day when the state will assume the expense of these schools, and free the Catholic people from the double taxation of supporting public and parochial schools.

bondage for well nigh three centuries. Then came the torrent of pagan barbarism from north and east, which completed the destruction with fire and sword. The church proceeded to create order out of chaos. She first converted the barbarians, gathered them around her monasteries, where she taught the more easily teach them letters and instruct them in agriculture. She then helped them to organize governments and make laws; by degrees she abolished slavery and serfdom, and established liberty and equality.

Holy orders founded their convents in the most remote places, where the best opportunity presented itself to civilize and to Christianize. With her commission went forth a Patriarch to Ireland, an Augustine to England, a Benedict to Germany. Missionaries like these received their commission and inspiration from the church, as the apostles had received it from Christ. "Behold I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world." These missionaries went forth with nothing but a staff in their hands, prepared to encounter all difficulties, even death itself, for the success of their undertakings. The church did not hesitate to use the sword of the spirit in protecting the marriage bond, she has always taught that marriage once contracted, cannot be annulled, except by death. "What God hath joined together let not man break asunder." In defense of this doctrine the church has suffered persecution and incalculable losses, and her enemies knew that they cannot violate it without forfeiting membership in her communion. Her stand on this question was made clear in the case of the Imperial King, Henry VIII, when she sacrificed the whole English nation rather than grant him a divorce from his lawful wife. The church does not insist on the state's right to decide and regulate the civic consequences arising from marriage, but she can never surrender her own right to safeguard the sanctity and indisolubility of marriage as a sacrament. Marriage, the bonds are ruthlessly broken and re-made. She scruples apparently without fear of the heretic and with only a faint protest from the church. The Catholic church alone faithful to the divine command "do not resist evil" stands out against all such efforts, holding forth the authority of Christ.

PUBLIC WORKS

In the Philippines Progress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Major James Case, chief of the bureau of public works in the Philippine government, is in Washington consulting with officials in regard to future work in the archipelago. As chief engineer of the city of Manila he designed and constructed the water works system and the sewerage system that converted the Philippino capital into a thriving metropolis and now is interested with the seventeen year task of constructing five good miles of macadam highways in the island.

The new Manila water system supplies 22,500,000 gallons daily from a mountain stream whose watershed of 149 square miles has been declared a reservation and withdrawn from settlement.

The sewerage system comprises 25 miles of sewers ranging from 72 to 8 inches in size. The sewage is pumped a mile and a quarter out into the sea. The pumping stations will handle 25 million gallons of sewage a day.

Major Case may return to the islands after a long vacation.

THE AIRSHIP FLIGHTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Presenting an inspiring picture of grit and determination, Wilbur Wright, the aeronaut, today defied the air, the water and the land in a marvelous flight over the numberless craft in New York harbor and the North river. Starting at 9:55, the daring aviator headed into the wind and flew over ferryboats, yachts, steamers and the other boats that fill the waters of New York harbor.

Flying high to avoid the air currents from the smoke stacks of the steamboats, Mr. Wright went up the North river over the fleet of battleships and past Grant's tomb, encircling the British cruiser Argyle. Returning at fast speed with the wind, he came back over the water and landed at his starting point in the most matter-of-fact way possible. He had been gone for thirty-four minutes and thirty-three seconds, making one of the most perilous trips ever attempted. The distance of the flight was estimated at fifteen miles. "The machine responded in fine shape," said Mr. Wright as he clambered through the network of wires from the machine. "The motor worked fine. I started flying about 15 feet over the water but kept climbing higher until I was about 200 or 300 feet high. The air currents sent by the funnels of the ferryboats interfered somewhat and I came down nearer to the water.

"The wind was blowing about ten miles an hour and I had to head a little toward the east instead of letting the machine straight up the river." "This flight fulfills every condition of my contract," added the aviator in response to inquiries as to further demonstrations of his prowess in the fair. "But if the favorable weather conditions continue this afternoon I may make another flight which can be announced by the Hudson-Fulton association committee. I will leave for Washington to train the army officers as soon as possible."

As the aviator approached the city, flying steadily but bucking the wind, the roofs of all the buildings became crowded and pleasure craft started up the river in an effort to keep up with the remarkable craft that flew above them. They were soon compelled to give up the chase for Wright stripped the fastest of them.

As the machine flew high above the Merrimac the little matron-colored canoe which Wright had previously attached to his airplane in the event that he would be compelled to alight on the water, was plainly visible.

As the machine pushed into the air current, apparently striking a disturbing air current, the absolute mastery of the aviator was strongly impressed on the spectators.

ST. BERNARD DOG

Lived Four Months With Hat Pin in His Stomach

A St. Bernard pup, owned by F. J. John, cut an incision about an inch and Flemings, the Perry street paper deal, a half long in the tumor. His blisters, however, had the distinction of having lived four months with a hat pin in his stomach.

The instrument which he used in the operation, came in contact with some hard substance that the doctor thought not effect his health. The case was possibly a broken rib. He soon discovered one that will arouse the interest and curiosity, the surgically inclined, and, plying his forces, pulled out a hat pin that measured just ten and a half inches. It was one that Mrs. Flemings and Mr. Flemings some time ago had lost about four months ago.

There was not a twit, or a bend in it, continued to increase in size and a few days ago Mr. Flemings summoned Dr. W. S. Eaton. He told the doctor, "passed through the dog's stomach, through the intestines and through every organ in the abdominal cavity. Yet the dog was perfectly healthy. I consider it a very remarkable case and I will send it to the veterinary museum in Washington."

The St. Bernard is eight months old. It was found to be a swelling back of the last rib. There was not a twit, or a bend in it, continued to increase in size and a few days ago Mr. Flemings summoned Dr. W. S. Eaton. He told the doctor, "passed through the dog's stomach, through the intestines and through every organ in the abdominal cavity. Yet the dog was perfectly healthy. I consider it a very remarkable case and I will send it to the veterinary museum in Washington."

He found a small tumor and in order to treat it properly it was necessary to put the dog under control. This is the pin to the veterinary museum in Washington."

THE COTTON BELT

Conditions Seem to Be
Getting Worse

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—Taking the cotton belt as a whole, there has been no marked change, and the change, if any, has been toward further deterioration, according to the Times Democrat's cotton crop bulletin for the month of September.

Continuing, the bulletin says:

"The storm of Sept. 20 did great damage in the district which came within its sweep."

"Pickling has made rapid progress and there is generally an abundance of labor for this purpose."

"Farmers seem disposed to sell at current prices, at least enough to pay their debts, but a considerable part of the crop is likely to be held for an advance later on."

"The boll weevil has wrought havoc in certain sections, but the intense heat minimized the loss from this pest."

"The next report will be printed on Monday, Nov. 29."

LOSS REDUCED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—While the first estimates of the damage done the cotton crop of Louisiana and Mississippi by the hurricane of Sept. 29 have been greatly reduced, the loss sustained both in the amount of yield and condition of the staple is considerable according to the Picayune. In many sections some of the cotton carried to the ground by the violent winds has been saved by heroic work, but the quality and grade have been seriously affected.

It is estimated that in 10 or 15 days most of the fields will be entirely clear and all cotton will have been harvested.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Mr. Henry W. Savage has struck the "big nail" of success on the head with his production of the dashing military operetta, "The Gay Hussars," which will be seen at the Opera House tonight. "The Gay Hussars" possesses the three most important elements of success in an opera—a fine score, an interesting and romantic story and a well selected cast of players.

In presenting "The Gay Hussars" Mr. Savage has introduced a number of new artists to playgoers. Miss Muriel Terry, who plays the role of Volunteer Cadet Marosi, is the first woman in years to score a big success in a boy's character. Blitherto Miss Terry has been identified with grand opera. She was mezzo soprano at the Hof und Nationaltheater in Mannheim. Miss Florence Reid, who plays the Baroness Treszka, made her stage debut at the premiere of "The Gay Hussars" at the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York. She is the first example on record of a girl making her stage debut on Broadway in an important role and scoring a hit.

Although Bobby North has been a vaudeville star for five or six years his role of "Uncle Dave Holcomb" at the Opera House, from the pen of Mr. William Lawrence and Mrs. Annie Andros Hawley of Boston, Mass. Mr. William Lawrence has for the past five years appeared in "Uncle Josh" in "The Old Homestead" with great success. During the action of the play in the farm-yard scene, Miss Marion Shirley will enact the difficult problem of milking a cow in full view of the audience, while the Milkmaids' quartet will render old-fashioned songs and hymns. The country dance and the temperance meeting are interesting features.

JAMES T. POWERS IN "HAVANA" AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE, BOSTON.

MAJESTIC THEATRE, BOSTON

At the Majestic Theatre tonight James T. Powers will begin a limited engagement in the big musical comedy success of the year, "Havana," which comes to Boston direct from an engagement of two seasons at the Casino theatre, New York city. There will be seven years. This period expires at matinees Wednesday and Saturday; short time prior to that set for the exit of Nix, and when the time has lapsed, his wife, whom he has been dodging all the time, recognizes him, and since he is legally dead he may not be executed again. In brief, this is the story of "Havana" involves the usual revolutionaries found in tropical colonies, and an American sailor, Nix by name. It seems that this Nix, seven years prior to the opening of the play, has as a "counterplot" a pretty love-story concerning Consuela and J. D. Poyster Jackson, a young American millionaire.

Of course Mr. Powers plays Nix. He tosses her shortly afterwards and now makes his first appearance in this time aboard an American yacht called the Waap. Nix and his mates are mistaken for filibusters and forced into association with the rebels, and being caught, Nix, as a ringleader, is sentenced to death. Under the law a man is legally dead at the end of the seven years. This period expires at the exit of Nix, and when the time has lapsed, his wife, whom he has been dodging all the time, recognizes him, and since he is legally dead he may not be executed again. In brief, this is the comedy story of the play, and it is gaily done and the costumes in delicate harmonies of colorings.

Seats are now on sale for all performances, and mail orders will receive particular attention.

him. By the time he reached his brother, the latter was exhausted and sank. Fred apparently made an effort to dive for his brother, but his slight knowledge of swimming and his exhaustion caused him to sink, and neither boy came up again.

The accident was witnessed by a number of people on the opposite shore of the lake, but they supposed that the young men were in swimming. Both bodies were recovered.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1909. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

RATHER GO TO JAIL.

It would seem that there is something radically wrong with our city since those who have been there of late would rather go to jail than go back.

THE SCHOOL DEPARTMENT UNRESTRICTED.

The school department evidently can override the orders of the committee on appropriations. When it comes to a matter of discharging teachers, where they are needed, there is good ground for objection. The city is obliged to provide instruction for all the pupils who attend, and this requires a reasonable teaching force.

TARIFF ON HIDES.

Whether the tariff be high or low, it seems that the people will have to pay trust prices for what they buy anyhow. We have had the tariff on hides removed but the price of shoes instead of going down has shot right up. There is always some power to counter-check any advantage that might accrue to the masses.

PRESIDENT BAER'S INGENIOUS EXPLANATION.

President Baer of the Reading Coal company has hit upon an ingenious way of explaining how all the companies adopt a uniform price without being in combination that is forbidden by law. He says his company fixes the price of its product and that other companies that can produce coal cheaper adopt the same rate. Mr. Baer assumes that by this explanation he proves that there is no coal trust. The trust exists and it has kept up the price of coal ever since the strike of a few years ago.

CAUSES OF FINANCIAL FAILURES AND SUICIDE.

It is quite remarkable what a large number of business men have gone out of business in this city during the last few years, either through the insolvency court or by suicide. It might appear from such occurrences that Lowell is a poor city to do business in, but such a conclusion is not warranted by the facts and would be unjust to the reputation of Lowell. It must be admitted that for many years past we have had more citizens victimized in risky financial ventures than any other city of our size in the country perhaps. It seems to be an undisputed fact that we have had a large crop of suckers in Lowell; we mean men who can be easily induced to embark in any of the get-rich-quick schemes so numerous floating about this country and so successful in deceiving citizens of Lowell who should be more conservative.

It is not for lack of opportunity in Lowell, not for want of thriving enterprises in which reasonable profits can be made. We have in Lowell a lot of small industries that are steadily growing and that would be more prosperous still if they were helped along by local interest and the investment of local capital. We have also a lot of large industries that offer a good field for investment, but somehow very few of our citizens have any desire to be shareholders in a big mill, a big machine shop or a big shoe shop. Unfortunately too many of them turn their attention to outside investments with the nature of which they are not familiar, and thus they often lose what they invest. It is unhappily true also that many patronize the bucket shop, keeping up the game with varied success until eventually they get so deeply involved that they are unable to retrieve their losses, and they have then to face the inevitable. In many cases the blow is too much for them to bear and they resort to suicide to escape the humiliation and disgrace.

We have so much of this in Lowell that it is time a halt were called upon this form of dissipation—so ruinous to legitimate business and often to the happiness of the parties involved. It is high time to bring to the attention of investors in Lowell that there has not been a judicious investment in the better real estate in Lowell for the last thirty years that has not proved quite successful.

There is no question about the paying qualities of down town or business property in Lowell. Had the men who went into the wild cat schemes to make money invested in Lowell real estate and kept their property up to date they would eventually have received good returns on the money invested and in no case would they have lost.

Even our Lowell industries will compare favorably with those of other cities, and we have quite variety. They enjoy first class facilities for transportation, an extensive local and suburban car service for the easy conveyance of help; and with our water power we have many advantages not enjoyed by other cities.

The whole trouble seems to be a lack of appreciation of local enterprise, business and opportunity. If more of our citizens who want to get rich in a hurry would take hold of some local industry, however small, and push it onward, we should have fewer business failures, fewer suicides and greater business stability. Above all invest your money at home; do not be afraid of Lowell real estate; do not imagine that Lowell industries do not offer many opportunities of profitable investment; do not imagine that in order to get rich you must put your money in western mines, southern rubber plantations or in some new-fangled scheme for manufacturing gold bricks. Above all do not stake your fortune, and it may be your life, on a chance as uncertain as the flip of a coin, for this is what is frequently done in the bucket shops and in other reckless forms of speculation.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a man tells you that he is suffering from insomnia, so that he never gets a wink of sleep, he deserves sympathy of course, but there is always a chance that if you should drop into his chamber unexpectedly at one o'clock in the morning, you would catch him napping.

The people who can't afford an automobile, comfort themselves by remarking how like guys the automobile people look.

Even the boy who is brought up under the management of three maiden aunts occasionally turns out well.

If men always kept their promises, only think how much less women would have to find fault about!

The man who tries to be funny is generally a bore, but a woman can be funny without trying by just running for a stick can.

It is no use to try to get a woman to admire any amateur artist's work, if her husband paints.

Don't feel too much flattered when a man comes to you and asks you specifically for your advice about a specific matter. He may come around next week to borrow money.

Here's hoping that you will never become so angry with the poor man responsible for this column as to shoot him with a baked apple.

When a little man four feet, five and a half inches high, exclaims with emphasis: "I insist upon it" everybody laughs.

Thackeray produced a novel without a hero in it, but who can imagine a successful novel without a heroine?

No young man can persuade a girl that flirtation is the sincerest flattery when she discovers that he has given her an imitation diamond.

When a man can describe with perfect accuracy the costume worn by a woman he met, his wife is seldom jealous of him.

The motto of the self-seeking business man: Don't hit a man when he is down; kick him.

The doctor who says that women are much less graceful than men is very likely right. As a rule, they are also much less disgraceful.

APPENDICITIS.

The most dreaded disease of civilization is the condition known as appendicitis. Once fully established, nothing will remedy but the cold knife. The theory that this inflammation was caused by seeds or foreign bodies entering the appendix is long exploded. The true cause of appendicitis is sluggishness of the bowels, constipation, and the gases which are formed in consequence produce germs known to the scientist as the Bacilli Coli Commensis. Now to avoid this formation of gas germs, constipation and the resulting inflammation, take Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, which have been tested in all the various diseases of the stomach, bowels and liver, and found to be the greatest and best preventive remedy known. These wonderful little vegetable pills cleanse the blood, and make it rich and red. They stimulate the liver to healthy action and invigorate the whole system. You may be very sick at night; Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills make you well in the morning. Physicians use and recommend. They form no habit. You should always keep them on hand. ## WOMEN'S TAILORED SUITS

There's a definite Fall tone and air about this particular collection of Suits. They reflect in the clever handiwork and graceful lines the exceeding care exercised in their production. In character and design they rival Suits Boston Stores give prominence to at $40 and $50. You'll find them exclusive in the fullest sense of the word.

No woman wants her clothes to look "ready-made." If she pays only twenty-five dollars for a Suit she longs for it to have some little redeeming touch that will make her friends think it was created especially for her. It is these subtle points of distinction, these marks of originality, that make the tailored garments offered by the Merrimack so unusually attractive. They are quite different from the ordinary department store product. We believe in individuality.

When you buy a Merrimack garment, our saleswomen will find a style that is becoming to you, after learning your tastes and preferences. They do not try to persuade you to take something, anything, just to make a sale.

Most every Lowell woman knows that Merrimack garments are fitted by custom fitters and altered with care and precision, ensuring custom tailored results. Our fitters take great pride in their work, and you'll find them just as conscientious as if you were their private customer.

CREDITS

Rev. James E. Gregg, Now Pastor of Kirk Street Church, Preached Yesterday—Y. M. C. A. Arranges a Reception to Dr. and Mrs. Yarnell

At the First Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, began a series of Sunday night sermons, the general topic being "The Fit Citizen." He said that the fit citizen must be above classes, above creeds, and that America must never bring into her life the old divisions which have cursed Europe. He said that a man who appeals to class to create divisions, is a great enemy of our republic.

Kirk Street Church

There were low vacant seats in the Kirk Street church yesterday. Rev. James E. Gregg, who began his pastorate with the Friday night meeting, was the preacher and besides a large attendance of members of the congregation, many were present from other churches. The subject of the preacher's sermon was "God's Workmanship" and the congregation was favorably impressed by the young minister, Rev. Mr. Gregg is 32 years of age and he had but one postorate before coming to Lowell. That was in Pittsfield, where he built up a strong church.

Rev. C. E. Fisher

At the First Universalist church in Hard street Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, struck the keynote of optimism and there was a good young congregation. "Cheer up" was the topic of Rev. Mr. Fisher's talk and he advised his listeners to look on the bright side of things. He said that the trouble with most of us is we are too foolish and he said it would be well for us to forget ourselves at times and think that we are living for someone else.

Reception to Dr. Yarnell

Arrangements have been completed for the reception to Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Yarnell at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening when Lowell people will have an opportunity to meet the new secretary. The ladies' auxiliary has the matter in charge and there will be orchestral music during the evening and refreshments will be served.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. James Hill of this city and Miss Martha Cahay of East Chelmsford were united in marriage last Friday evening, October 3, at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. Fr. A. Connel, 65 Gates street. The best man was the bride's brother, John Cahay of the second United States Artillery, stationed at West Point, but now at home on a short furlough. The bridegroom was the bride's cousin, Miss Edith Brown of East Chelmsford. The bride was gowned in blue satin, with white lace trimmings, and the bridegroom in black, similarly trimmed. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's father, Hugh Cahay, on Centre street, East Chelmsford, attended by a considerable number of friends. Mr. Hill is a reported employee of the City front foundry, and the home of the couple will be on Centre street, East Chelmsford.

MAYOR OF ST. LOUIS AND VIEWS OF CITY WHICH HOLDS BIG CENTENNIAL FESTIVAL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—This city began yesterday the biggest historical celebration since its incorporation 160 years ago, the event being known as the Centennial. The ringing of more than 400 church bells at sunrise this morning will announce the opening of the festival. During the week there will be a water pageant in which four United States war vessels will participate, flights by Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator; races in dirigibles, balloons, many athletic events, a re-trading post in 1764 by Pierre Laclef, discoverer of the stele, Liguest, a Frenchman, who had North pole, the parade and ball of the in trading concession from the Spanish government. It was in 1809, six years after the Louisiana purchase, which made St. Louis a part of the United States, that the town, with a population of about 1600 persons, was incorporated. The growth of St. Louis from a small trading post to the fourth city in the United States in point of population will be illustrated in the pageants of Centennial week.

O. H. Judd last night with a fair attendance in spite of various counter attractions.

It was announced that within the near future T. P. O'Connor, M. P., one of the greatest men of the Irish race today, is coming to this country with Captain Condron and John O'Callaghan, now visiting Ireland, all three to sail on Oct. 14. The announcement created considerable interest, the fact being that Mr. Redmond, the Irish leader, forces an early dissolution of parliament and the expensive campaign work of a general election in which he hopes to secure a delegation of 85 nationalists holding the balance of power between the two great English parties.

There were able addresses by Capt. M. J. Jordan of Boston and C. O'Connell Galvin, a Boston journalist. President Rouke opened the meeting and called upon Mr. E. J. Gallagher to preside. The chairman read letters from the national president, announcing the coming of T. P. O'Connor, M. P., Captain Condron and John O'Callaghan and stating that they will address a series of meetings in cities, including Lowell, soon after their arrival here.

Mr. Jordan was introduced as one of a large number of gentlemen who devote their brilliant talents and a considerable portion of their time to the Irish cause without any compensation whatever, and who also pay their expenses going out through the state to enlighten the people upon the progress that has been made by the Irish party in winning great reforms that could never have been accomplished but for the assistance of the friends of Ireland in this country.

Mr. Jordan was cordially greeted and said it could be stated truthfully that no man connected with the Irish parliamentary movement in this country gets any compensation whatever, while many of them give freely of their time and their money and feel that they are well repaid in the glorious cause being made by the people at home in their onward march to freedom.

Mr. Jordan then dwelt upon the past history of Ireland, the learning and ability to taste and freedom evinced by the Irish race during their struggle of eight hundred years against oppression. During that struggle, he said, the people had suffered more than any other people ever did and they were as determined today as ever before to fight until complete victory crowned its efforts. He spoke at some length of Ireland's past, to show why the Irish people should be proud of their past and why they should fight to the end for a restoration of Ireland's rights. He said that Ireland in the past few years had gained more substantial reforms than had been previously secured for centuries. He cited many instances of the great progress recently made, and among others the

Probably Were Killed by Whiskey Has Been Gone From Home Since Saturday

BIDDEFORD, Me., Oct. 4.—Two Biddeford men are dead and a third is in a critical condition as a result. It is alleged, of drinking whiskey secured from a Biddeford Express company.

John W. Hayes, a former member of the Biddeford police department, was found dead near Braddon's wharf on Saturday afternoon. It was learned that Alexander Normandin, who had been with Hayes, had also dropped dead, and that Edward Bergeron, a Biddeford member of the party, was in a critical condition. An investigation was set on foot by the Biddeford police, and while inquiries have not been made as yet to determine the exact cause of death, it is believed that all three deaths were the direct result of the men imbibing too freely of stout Maine whiskey.

COAL—$4.25 PER TON

I will sell until further notice, the very best grade of New River Bituminous Coal at $4.25 per ton. You can have the coal analyzed by any chemist, and I will stand back of the analysis. You can have it weighed by the Scale of Weights and Measures of the city of Lowell, and I will be responsible for the weight. You will wonder why I can sell this high-grade Steam Coal at such a ridiculously low price at this season of the year. The fact of the matter is that some of my competitors have got an idea that they control this branch of the trade, and I now purpose to give them battle to a finish. Mail and telephone orders will receive immediate attention.

LOYALTY TO CHURCH*Man's Loyalty to Country, Says President Taft

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 4.—President of this country and Catholic church re-Taft yesterday preached against revolution in the government and state now. The scene changed from the platform only to the restaurant shown.

On Sunday last, to the corner stone laying of the First Universalist church

"I needed," continued the president, indicating that every government and trotted and worked hard to see the correctness of the establishment and some properly adjusted. His speech in the name of churches and that correctness in setting the stone will be broadcasted out great applause from the open air throughout the land.

The president referred to his various church experiences and in concluding

"No church in this country, however humble it may be, that preaches the doctrine of this religion and true morality will lack any earnest spirit to make it more individual whenever opportunity offers."

The president's train left at 6:10 p.m. over the Southern Pacific railway for Sacramento, Cal.

Mr. Taft had a truly religious day which began when he attended the morning services at the First Universalist church in Portland and then heard a sermon by Rev. W. G. Elliot. In after this service the president was the guest of honor at luncheon tendered by Senator Bonner, which included various state and city officials.

In the early afternoon the president visited St. Mary's Roman Catholic school and made a five minute speech to the school children in which he declared that loyalty to the church meant loyalty to country, however humble it may be, which preaches the doctrine of true religion and true morality.

It was on his way to the corner stone laying that the president stopped at St. Mary's Catholic school and from the steps of that institution made a brief address to the boys and girls.

Mr. Taft was presented by Archbishop

Christie and after congratulating the children on their rosy cheeks and cheerfulness said:

"Your church teaches that loyalty to God is the same as fidelity to country and reverence for constituted authority; and so do all good churches."

"And we can be very certain that suggest every instrument by which the people who are loyal to their church morals and religion of the community are certain to be loyal to their country may be elevated and maintained. Not you that those who are good Catholics are good citizens, just as those who are consistent members of other churches and in the doing of their work in the pulpit of a Jewish rabbi, to the church everything that made at Pittsburgh. But a few days later I helped to lay the corner stone of humanity and the observation of all the a Catholic institution at Helena, Mont., obligations to the government."

"And now it is my great pleasure to President Taft's special train last assist here today in laying the corner stone of the Universalist church in the fertile Willamette valley en route which, like my own, the Unitarian to Sacramento, where the president church is known as a liberal one.

"I am glad always to be present at such occasions as these, for I believe with his step at Portland, the schedule having been such that he was given opportunity for recreation and rest."

SHOT IN STOMACH*Man Fatally Wounded in Restaurant

WORONOCKET, R. I., Oct. 4.—While sitting at a table in the restaurant of Francis J. Geffey of Block Island, Mass., Everett Blanchard, aged 25 years, of this city, was shot in the stomach late yesterday by a companion and died later at the hospital here. The assailant, whose name is not known to the police, escaped. Joseph Johnson of Woonsocket, who was with the two men at the time, is held by the police as a witness, but has been unable to throw any light on the cause of the shooting. He said that they had been in a quarrel apparently between the two men, and the proprietor of the place said he had heard no foul language. From the course taken by the bullet it is believed that the defendant, who was a tall man, was standing up and his assailant sitting down when the shot was fired. Blanchard leaves a widow and three children from whom he had been separated for some time.

The Thompson Hardware Co. has just received a line of beautiful new styles and designs of Brass Andirons. Nothing like them has ever been seen or shown in Lowell before.

TWO MEN KILLED*Eight Others Were Seriously Injured

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—Two men were killed and eight other passengers seriously injured, three of them probably fatally, last night in a street car accident here.

The accident occurred in the fashionable residence section of the East End on the Butler and Negley Avenue division of the Pittsburg Railway Co.

While a car on this line was rounding a corner at fair speed, one of the axles broke. The car upset, the dead and injured being caught in the wreckage. All the victims were passengers.

MISS BEATTIE*ARRESTED IN LONDON, ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Eleanor Loraine Beattie, who was recently arrested in London at the request of a New York firm of jewelers, charged with having impersonated her patroness, then Mrs. Charles Stearns, wife of the former attorney general of Rhode Island, and now Madame Peragoni, wife of the Italian charge d'affaires at Paris, was brought back here yesterday to face trial, aboard the White Star liner Baltic, under the name of Eleanor L. Burton.

Miss Beattie's identification and arrest were brought about by the pen-and-caricature of a jewelry salesman who was struck by her pronounced height and mannish dress. She is of good family and it has repeatedly been intimated that the case against her would never be pressed. The specific charge against her is that she obtained $1500 worth of silverware by false representations and subsequently pawned it.

THE POPE IS ILL*Has Been Sick For Several Days

ROME, Oct. 4.—For several days past the pope has been sick, but he continued to see visitors, hoping to overcome what he considers a slight indisposition. Saturday he received in audience one of the archbishops, who noticed that the pontiff appeared tired and languid. After the audience was ended the symptoms became aggravated, there being considerable pain and swelling of the leg, which indicated a recurrence of the gout. Although the attack is slight, the pope's doctors have insisted upon complete rest and the audiences have been suspended.

AMBASSADOR HILL*ARRIVED IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY

DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, who succeeded Charlemagne Tower as ambassador to Germany, arrived yesterday on the U.S.A. Washington for his first visit to this country since his appointment to the post at Berlin. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hill.

Dr. Hill selected the idea of any war between England and Germany. "Germany," he said, "has a great deal of prestige which she must maintain, and it is not decided that she will jeopardize it by war. She is progressing rapidly and substantially, and her energies are expended along excellent lines."

RABBI FLEISCHER*ENDORSES ELIOT'S RELIGION OF THE FUTURE

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Rabbi Charles Fleischer of the Temple Israel took occasion in his sermon yesterday to endorse the recent address of President Eliot, head of Harvard university, on "The Religion of the Future."

Declaring that in the past four months nothing had happened in the religious world comparable in significance and worth with President Eliot's address, Rabbi Fleischer said:

"I regard it as the noblest, sanest, most logical, moral and spiritual expression of the actual faith of our day which it has been my fortune to find."
